BUSINESSES AND BOROUGH SUPPORT LAUNCH OF NORTH PLAINFIELD HOMETOWN NEWSPAPER

The desire for a hometown newspaper has been brewing in North Plainfield for some time. The North Plainfield Economic Development Committee and The North Plainfield Business Association contacted Renna Media to see if a newspaper in their community was viable. Renna Media publishes six local newspapers in Union County. The idea for starting a paper in North Plainfield began with Paul Alirangues, who owned the Organigaya Café on Somerset Street. Alirangues has known publisher Joe Renna (both are natives of Elizabeth, NJ) for over thirty years. The EDC held three exploratory meetings for Renna with borough officials, community leaders and business owners. The premiere issue of The Pride is the result of these planning and brainstorming sessions.

"There are many communities that ask me to start up in their town but it has to be the right fit for it to work," Renna says. "Desire is part of it but I have to look at the integrity of the community. I was impressed by the spirit and sincerity of the folks I met in North Plainfield. I thought would be a pleasure to work with them."

Peter Eddy, President of the North Plainfield Business Association (NPBA), took a lead role in developing the newspaper. Renna Media has given the NPBA the opportunity to use the newspaper to promote itself and assist it in its mission to drive the economic, professional and civic welfare of North Plainfield. Eddy says "The response has been tremendous. Everyone has embraced the idea, from the Mayor to the residents."

The newspaper will deliver important information from the departments in Borough Hall, along with news from the schools and library. Community service organizations are encouraged to promote their events, free of charge. The newspaper's goal is to be a positive influence on the economic development and overall well-being of North Plainfield. There will be no investigative reporting or political content; The Pride exists to share all of the good things that are happening in town with residents and businesses.

The Pride will be published monthly: 5,000 will be printed with 4,500 being mailed free to homes and businesses. The remaining papers will be available at distribution points around town. The production is designed to keep advertising costs low; no color ink or glossy paper, just black and white newsprint. Based on his experience with his other publications, Renna says "It is, by far, the best value for your advertising dollar." A discounted rate has also been established for members of the NPBA.

Local resident Nick Keyasko will serve as managing editor, and will gather content and facilitate advertising.

MESSAGE FROM THE MAYOR

The Pride • Page 2 • May 2012

I would like to commend and thank the North Plainfield Economic Development Committee for bringing this newspaper to the Borough of North Plainfield. In my many conversations with our residents, everyone seems to share the common desire for more information about the many activities happening in our town.

Congratulations should also go out to the many organizations, borough departments, and residents that worked behind the scenes to make this publication possible and thank you to our sponsors for supporting us and the editors for believing in our community.

Thank you all! It is exciting to continue to have committed residents striving to maintain our designation of a "Proud Community".

Mayor Michael Giordano

NORTH PLAINFIELD BUSINESS ASSOCIATION IS REENERGIZED AND ON THE MOVE

Since its origin in 1938, the North Plainfield Business Association has been the voice of business in North Plainfield. The organization is experiencing a surge in activity and interest. President Peter Eddy, of P&E Plastic Fabrication has responded to the business community's interest in the organization and has been working to get the NPBA back to prominence by calling on all business owners, contractors and local professionals to join the group. Part of his effort is endorsing the new Newspaper, The Pride of North Plainfield which will promote NPBA's efforts.

The NPBA's mission is to promote the economic, professional and civic welfare of North Plainfield. It will provide an opportunity for all types of local businesses to band together and promote commerce in our town. The Business Association will work closely with North Plainfield's government (and with trade organizations throughout Somerset County and NJ) to ensure our local business interests are protected. There is strength in numbers: member businesses will take advantage of shared marketing costs, as well as a rich community of neighbors to help them network and get their brand out in the market.

The newly-reformed Business Association will be visible and active in the community. From holding fundraising events, to keeping its members informed about local issues, to offering its members discounts at merchants throughout town – the NPBA pledges to be always working for the benefit of North Plainfield's economy.

The NPBA's next meeting is Wednesday June 13th from 5:30pm to 7:30pm at Vermeule Community Center, 614 Greenbrook Road, North Plainfield. Members and non-members are invited to attend!

Anyone who is interested in getting involved with the North Plainfield Business Association should contact President Peter Eddy at (908) 757-1909.

STUDENTS TAKE PART IN GETTYSBURG DOCUMENTARY

Submitted by Tom Mazur, Supervisor of Fine, Practical and Performing Arts, NPHS

hour orientation meeting regarding the tight two day schedule. Two weeks prior the students attended a two hour seminar about the history and significance of the battle that took place at Gettysburg in July 1863. As a special surprise, Dr. Mussari, the film's producer, director and project teacher arranged for a visit by General Robert E. Lee and his wife. It was designed to help students understand the position of the South and the greatness of Robert E. Lee.

Up at 7am on Saturday, July 28, and after breakfast, the students were on the bus at 8:15 and headed to the National Park where they saw a movie about the battle and visited the impressive cyclorama, a 365 foot long and 42 foot high, 360 degree cylindrical painting depicting "Pickett's Charge" by the Confederate soldiers. This was followed with a visit to the museum and then lunch. The rest of the afternoon was spent at several key areas in the Park where the students could stand and walk in the very places where boys their own age and younger had fought and died.

After breakfast on Sunday morning the group traveled to the cemetery. From a spot not far from where Lincoln delivered his "Gettysburg Address," Dr. Mussari interviewed each student individually. Shortly after 1:00pm, the students were filmed as a group entering the bus which then headed east to North Plainfield. Dr. Mussari headed back to his studio in Pennsylvania to begin editing and composing hours of footage which will at least take six months to complete.

The documentary will be screened in North Plainfield in December and also in Gettysburg in 2013, the 150th anniversary of the battle of Gettysburg.

On Friday, April 27th, 10 NPHS students, along with chaperones Wanda Blue (parent) and Tom Mazur (Supervisor of the Arts) boarded a school bus and headed west on Route 78 to Gettysburg, Pennsylvania. This was no ordinary field trip; it was the beginning of an intensive learning opportunity on a documentary film shoot, where every event and virtually every moment were captured on videotape.

The students were on camera practically the entire weekend; from the moment they got off the bus at the Hampton Inn to when they boarded the bus back home on Sunday afternoon. When they arrived on Friday they had just enough time to deposit their bags and belongings in their rooms before attending a 3

VOLUNTEERS TURN OUT IN LARGE NUMBER FOR CLEAN COMMUNITY DAY

Over 100 residents of all ages took to the streets, parks, and fields throughout the borough taking part in "Clean Community Day" on Saturday, May 5th. The annual event is sponsored by the North Plainfield Forum and the Mayor's Office.

The day began with registration at the Vermeule Community Center where each volunteer received a shirt, a pair of gloves, and a garbage bag before they set out. The hard work and dedication of all those involved was evident at the end of the day when everyone met back at Vermeule for a picnic style lunch.

Congratulations go out to the many volunteers that worked behind the scenes. Our community has been most fortunate to continue to have dedicated volunteers working to make North Plainfield a better place for all of us.

At a time when volunteerism seems to be lacking, it is exciting to continue to have committed residents and community organizations that strive to maintain our designation of a "Proud Community".

The oldest service club of the three Plainfields will hold its most important annual community service project on May 23 at the Frank Jost Athletic Field in South Plainfield.

NEWS FROM NORTH PLAINFIELD FIRE DEPARTMENT

Submitted by William F. Eaton, North Plainfield Fire Chief

On April 14th the fire department responded to a structure fire at 23 Somerset Street. Upon the fire department's arrival on scene, a large portion of the rear of the house was engulfed in fire. Due to the quick actions and rapid response of the on-duty platoon, the fire was contained to the exterior of the home and quickly extinguished. This was one of four structure fires the North Plainfield Fire Department responded to in the Borough over a one month period.

In other NPPD news, the department sent two of its firefighters to one of our country's premier training conferences during the month of April. For a full week of hands on and classroom instruction, these members participated at the FDIC (Fire Department Instructor Conference). They were amongst 30,000 other fire service members who received top of the line training from nationally recognized instructors/leaders. This was the 84th year the conference has been in existence.

COMMON SENSE PRECAUTIONS TO CAR THEFT

Submitted by William G. Parenti, NPPD Chief of Police

As warm weather approaches, leaving the windows down in a parked car may keep it cooler but is an invitation to thieves to take valuables. Several years ago the most commonly reported stolen items were car radios and radar detectors. MP3 players (such as I-Pods) and sunglasses are also frequently stolen from the inside of parked cars.

There are several things you can do to make your car a less attractive target. The simplest is not to leave valuables in your car. At least put them out of sight: under a seat; in the glove box; or locked in the trunk.

When parking your car, roll up the windows, lock the doors, and park in a well-lit space. This advice applied to your own driveway.

A thief can be in and out of your car in thirty seconds, barely enough time to be noticed during the day, let alone in the middle of the night.

POCIUS WINS AXELROD AWARD FOR TEACHING STUDENTS ABOUT BIAS AND PREJUDICE

Congratulations to Jerome Pocius, NPMS English teacher, who was selected to receive the Honey and Maurice Axelrod Award. For over 20 years the Axelrod family has rewarded educators who have demonstrated outstanding efforts in teaching the Holocaust and genocide in their classroom as well as in the field of bias, bigotry and prejudice.

Mr. Pocius has been teaching eighth-graders at North Plainfield Middle School about the Holocaust, genocide, and human rights for twenty years. When asked about the challenges of teaching such a difficult, emotional subject to middle schoolers, Mr. Pocius says he always tries to “intersperse the negative aspects of the Holocaust with heroes – the “rescuers” who worked to save those imprisoned in concentration camps and who struggled against Nazi intolerance. Focusing on “the lives of individuals”, while never sugar-coating the atrocities of the era, Mr. Pocius says his students are able to connect personally with what they learn in the classroom.

Mr. Pocius also enriches his lessons with his extensive collection of WWII-era artifacts and primary sources, which he displays in a showcase at NPMS. He lets his students touch, hold and read authentic postcards, letters and diary entries written by concentration camp prisoners. He makes the history of the Holocaust and WWII-era Germany come alive by presenting students with the thoughts and feelings of people who actually lived through the era.

Mr. Pocius’ efforts are part of a cross-disciplinary campaign at NPMS to teach students how the Holocaust is connected to the prejudice and bullying they may encounter in their own lives. Students learn about human rights issues not just in history, but in their reading and English classes as well (eighth-graders read The Diary of Anne Frank)

“It’s not just about teaching the Holocaust, it’s about building a connection to today,” says Mr. Bill Saccardi, who teaches Reading. “We find something that students can be passionate about and use that to get them interested in what they’re learning.” The program’s mission is to teach students about the continuing problems of bigotry and intolerance around the world, and to point out parallels between the events of the past, and how certain groups of people are discriminated against today.
