STEFANO DELVALLE'S QUICK ACTION SAVES SIXTH GRADE CLASSMATE FROM DROWNING

On June 1, 2013, eleven-year-old Stefano DelValle dove into a pool to retrieve the unconscious body of his classmate, saving his life by a matter of seconds.

The occasion was a graduation party for the sixth grade class of School #9 in Linden, NJ. The pool party just kicked off at two o'clock in the afternoon. The host, Linden Fireman Sal Principato, was just putting burgers and hot dogs on the grill as the children started playing around and jumping in the pool. In a matter of minutes Stefano DelValle noticed a body laying still at the bottom of the pool.

The body was of another eleven-year-old boy, Cervin, a sixth grader who had transferred to another Linden school but remained friends with some old classmates from School #9. Stefano thought Cervin was under the water too long even though his friends thought he was holding his breath on purpose.

Stefano, who was standing on the diving board, dove in and swam to the bottom of the eight-foot deep inground pool. He turned Cervin over and saw that his eyes were closed and he was not moving. He put Cervin over one shoulder and swam up to the surface of the pool. Cervin began foaming from the mouth and Stefano knew he was in a serious situation. He swam to the edge of the pool where Sal Principato lifted the limp body from the water and assisted Cervin until he started to breath on his own.

Principato made note of how fast it took for a crisis to happen. Linden EMS arrived on the scene to transport Cervin to a hospital. Cervin would tell the EMTs that when he jumped into the pool and found that he couldn't reach the bottom he panicked. He remembers taking in water but then nothing else afterwards.

Cervin was already submerged so there was none of the yelling or waving or splashing that is associated with drowning victims trying to get anyone's attention. Laryngospasm is an uncontrolled and involuntary spasm that happens when the trachea senses that water is entering the lungs. The muscle contraction is designed to stop any more water from entering, but unfortunately breathing is also stopped. The brain begins to suffer from lack of oxygen in less than five minutes. EMS workers speculated that another 30 seconds under water would have been crucial to his recovery.

(above) Stefano DelValle's story can be used to raise awareness of the dangers of water and to educate others in similar situations on how to be safe and how to take action.

There are lessons to be learned from this story for everyone. First is how easy it is to accidentally succumb to water. People should always be aware of the risks and take necessary precautions. Second is that people should learn to recognize those in need and to never hesitate to help. Stefano went above and beyond what the majority of people would do. What he did was brave. He went into action without hesitation and at his own risk while keeping his wits about him.

Stefano should be praised and honored for what he did. His publicity can be used in a positive way, to raise awareness and to educate others in similar situations on how to be safe and how to take action. He already is being heaped with praise from local businesses who have given him gift cards. Sovereign Bank donated to an account opened in his name for a scholarship fund.

Amazingly, Stefano is not impressed at all by what he did. He questions all the hoopla and shrugs off the entire affair as no big deal. The term hero has been overused and may have been watered down recently, but one can truly say that Stefano is a hero.

MESSAGE FROM LINC'S FOOD PANTRY

The National Association of Letter Carriers annual Stamp Out Hunger Food Drive was conducted on a Saturday in May in Linden. Interfaith Network of Community LINC'S was the recipient of the food.

The non-perishable food delivered at our pantry was helpful. Our local carriers delivered canned soup, juice, pasta, vegetables and cereal. At the pantry, Linden honor society students, Boy Scouts, and volunteers with LINC'S sorted the food as it arrived.

LINC'S thanks all the families in Linden who donated food, the volunteers who helped sort it, and the letter carriers who collected the food, for making this year's Stamp Out Hunger Food Drive possible.

Mike, Jay & Joe, and all of us at LINC'S

TWO STUDENTS HONORED BY ORGANIZATION OF ESL AND BILINGUAL TEACHERS

On Wednesday, May 29th, two students from the Linden Public Schools were recognized by NJTESOL-NJBE, the New Jersey professional organization of ESL and Bilingual teachers. Valeshka Parraguez, a fourth-grade student in Ms. Amanda Cortinas' ESL classroom at School # 8 was granted a $100 gift for her composition about the importance of being bilingual in the United States.

Andrea Cano Sanchez, a 12th-grade student in Mr. William Simonitis' ESL course was awarded a $1,500 scholarship that she will use towards her tuition at NJIT, where she plans to study civil engineering beginning in July. It is a true honor for a student to be chosen for one of these awards, and it is a rare honor for two students from the same district to have been selected.

LINWOOD INN IS NOW A TAP HOUSE WITH ADDITION OF 35 BEERS ON TAP

The Linwood Inn continues its long tradition of being a Linden landmark and is now featuring 35 beers on tap.

The Linwood Inn was built in 1862. Originally it was called The Linden Park Hotel. The hotel serviced those traveling through New Jersey as a place to stop for an overnight stay or to enjoy its pub, or eatery. It is one of the few remaining original buildings in Linden. Since 1971 it has been in the same family. Yosh took over from his parent's, Joe and Barbara Gulino, in 1992. Keeping with tradition and the times, Yosh and his wife Lori renovated the building and expanded it to a full-service restaurant and pub. Linwood is also proud of, Linden's own, Chef Dave Gassler, who has over 20-years experience.

In 2002 the Linwood was under the threat of eminent domain. They were told by many that there was nothing they could do about it, but they fought a long and costly battle, to keep "The Linwood" going, and won. They were released from Eminent Domain at a September 2008 council meeting.

(right) The Linwood Inn is rebranding itself as a Tap House with a new website designed by Renna Media, publishers of Life in Linden newspaper. The site includes the changing list of beers that are on tap along with food menu, specials and event news. The site will also have photo albums of events and parties held at the Linwood. The site address is www.LinwoodInnTapHouse.com

CHAMBER'S SCHOLARSHIP AND BUSINESS OF THE YEAR AWARDS

Submitted by Angie Tsirkas, Linden Chamber of Commerce Vice Chair

The Linden Chamber of Commerce held their twelfth annual scholarship and business awards dinner in June.

The Linden Chamber of Commerce is a leader among the great organizations representing the Linden Business Community, established with the mission to provide support to local businesses.

From September through June, meetings are held on the 4th Tuesday of each month at 8:30 AM at different member locations. We are proud to have representatives of Linden's government in attendance, allowing for an open and communicative relationship between business owners and the municipality.

Each year we host various fundraising events such as the Oktoberfest. Thanks to our volunteers, who devote many hours of planning, and to our devoted Chamber members who attend, we raise funds and award High School students scholarships to further their education. Our success is rooted with the efforts of the Gateway staff and we are grateful to all of them.

At this year's dinner we honored Lucille Disano, Sovereign/Santander Bank and Dragonfly Restaurant. We awarded our scholarship recipients Nicole Guevara, Manessa Lormejuste, Angelica Tarnawski, Kristina Taylor, David Szczepankiewicz and Milena Drozd.

Our membership represents a true mix of the Linden Business Community; from industrial to retail, transportation and fine dining. Membership continues to grow as our committee actively pursues businesses to join the Linden Chamber of Commerce. Chamber members are visible at numerous events in Linden, Union County and beyond.

Join us at our next meeting to be held in September. Or contact us for more information by emailing kateconroy@gatewaychamber.com or call 908-352-0900

COX PRINTERS IS THE BUZZ OF THE TOWN!

LIFE in LINDEN • Page 17 • July 2013

COX Printers, Linden, NJ 6/25/2013 – Have you heard the news? COX Printers, a commercial printer located in Linden, New Jersey is the buzz of the town. They recently purchased two bee colonies, and had them installed in their roof garden by BeeBold Apiaries. Why you ask? Not only is it a great addition to their efforts in becoming a sustainable company, it is also a necessary concern that affects us all as a society.

In a recent press release issued by the United States Department of Agriculture (USDA) and EPA on May 2nd, 2013 it was stated; "There is an important link between the health of American agriculture and the health of our honeybees for our country's long term agricultural productivity," said Agriculture

Deputy Secretary Kathleen Merrigan. "The forces impacting honeybee health are complex and USDA, our research partners, and key stakeholders will be engaged in addressing this challenge."

"The decline in honey bee health is a complex problem caused by a combination of stressors, and at EPA we are committed to continuing our work with USDA, researchers, beekeepers, growers and the public to address this challenge," said Acting EPA Administrator Bob Perciasepe. "The report we've released today is the product of unprecedented collaboration, and our work in concert must continue. As the report makes clear, we've made significant progress, but there is still much work to be done to protect the honey bee population."

With the help of BeeBold Apiaries, COX Printers has welcomed this challenge and is doing their part in providing a better tomorrow for us all. BEE-coming a socially responsible and sustainable company has been an on-going commitment for COX Printers. Over the past 2-years they have installed a solar array along with wind turbines on their roof, setup a roof garden, added energy efficient lighting as well as implemented a number of recycling programs from paper and pallets to paper and plastic. Their goal is to generate long-term value to their company and society as a whole.

For more information about COX Printers, please visit www.coxprinters.com, call 908-928-1010, or email info@coxprinters.com
