Message from the President

EMPLOYEE APPRECIATION DAY (first Friday in March)

I realize I'm either 5 months late or 7 months early but I couldn't resist this topic.

In hard economic times, how do business owners or leaders show appreciation to their employees?

Many professionals will argue that compensation is the only way. But is it really?

- It doesn't cost anything to meet with an employee and communicate how well a job he or she is doing.

You can simply say; "Ann, I wanted to take the time to personally let you know how much I appreciate your hard work. Your contribution on this project was second to none. Thank you very much." No, it does not put any more money in Ann's paycheck, but it does let her know that she is a valued member of the team. Gratitude goes a long way!

- Give an unplanned day off. This one thing communicates in an extremely powerful way and is very useful after employees have worked on a project that has consumed their time and taken them away from their families. Again, no extra money in their paycheck but a day off with no strings attached. Priceless!

- Send regular e-mails to employees who have performed a great job. Make sure you copy other employees who should be aware of these efforts. It's not enough to just communicate this with the individual employee, but rather that you share this recognition with others on the team.

I value your opinion and I would like to know how you recognize your employees? Or, what did the leader in your organization do that let you know how much you were appreciated?

Please consider joining our Chamber and expressing your opinions. Visit our website www.RahwayChamberofCommerce.com for membership rates and more information.

You can attend a general meeting for free. Our next general meeting will be Thursday, Sept 26th 8:30 am at the Masonic Lodge on Irving Street. I look forward to seeing you there.

GRAPE-MYRTLE (LAGERSTOEMIA)

Summer brings with it a spectacular display of color when Grape-Myrtle shrubs come into bloom. Clusters of flowers in pink, purple, white, red, blue and even bi-color varieties add incredible color to yards, gardens and even on the road sides.

Originally from China and the tropics, Grape-Myrtles have been popular in the south as far north as Baltimore for many years. These subtropical plants were not able to survive our winters until recent years. Now they are quickly becoming standard for gardeners in our area.

When the leaves drop in autumn, the beautiful exfoliating bark adds interest to the garden all winter long. Grape-Myrtles bloom in early summer on new wood, so even when pruned in April to keep the shape and size in check, they will still produce flowers.

Grape-Myrtle are deer resistant, attracts butterflies and are easy to care for. Planted in full sun you should plan on enjoying your new shrub for many years to come. The biggest problem with Grape-Myrtles is deciding which color to choose.

WHAT'S BUGGING YOU?

Ask Rutgers Garden Helpline of Union County

When you walk around your garden this time of year, you are sure to notice insect damage. Deformed leaves, bite marks and webbing are signs that you might have a problem. Often a healthy plant is able to tolerate some insect damage. Unfortunately many of these pests will cause plants to wilt and die if left unchecked. One common insect this time of year is SPIDER MITES. Hard to detect without a microscope these mites leave tell-tale webbing on their host plants. These tiny critters love Alberta Spruce and are able to turn a lush plant a sickly brown in a few short weeks. If you think you might have a problem, first give the plants a good blast of water to knock many of them off. Then take a sample to your local Rutgers Cooperative Extension Garden Helpline in Westfield. A good sample will have both healthy and sick needles / leaves on it. They will identify your problem and give you Rutgers suggestions to treat it.

For more information call your Helpline office at 908-654-9852. This invaluable service is free of charge to the residents of Union County.

RAHWAY THEATRE/UNION COUNTY PERFORMING ARTS CENTER SET FOR ANOTHER GRAND OPENING

Submitted by Al Shipley, City historian and Rahway Library research consultant

Early in 1927, Barney Engelman and his brother-in-law, David Oltarsh, announced the coming of a new grand theatre to the city of Rahway. Engelman, who was a prosperous local businessman and benefactor of many local projects, planned on building a structure comparable to the fine theatres being built in the larger cities.

The corner of Irving Street and Central Avenue was ultimately chosen as the site. The property was large enough, but posed several problems. For one, the land was slightly elevated and would have to be leveled. A second problem was the fact that two large old houses stood on the land, one facing Irving Street and the other on Central, facing the Civil War Monument. The house on Irving was simply razed, but the home on Central had a more unusual fate. The building was cut in half and both halves moved to a location on New Church Street where they stand to this day.

Construction began in the summer of 1927 and by October of the next year, the 1600 seat theatre was ready to open. The total cost of the project was $250,000.00.

The Rahway Record recorded the October 16 opening night as “one of the most notable events ever to take place here.” The interior was palatial, but the gem of the theatre was a Wurlitzer organ that would be played to accompany silent films. Opening night featured a recital on the Wurlitzer, the film “A Grain of Dust,” plus selected short subjects and other stage specialties. All proceeds from the first night went to benefit the recently constructed Rahway Hospital.

With such an auspicious beginning, it is ironic the theatre’s history over the next five decades would experience more financial worries and struggles than prosperous times. Shortly after it opened, as a vaudeville and silent film movie house, the talkies came, ushering in a new era in entertainment. Three months after its opening, on January 13, 1929, the theatre announced the premier of Vitaphone- a 100% all talking Picture, George M. Cohan’s “The Home Towners” (The Empire Theatre, located just down the street, had shown the first talkie in Rahway nine days before on Friday, January 4). The fall of the stock market in October, 1929, brought the hard times of the thirties. Maintaining a theatre for a profit was no easy task and as a result, several ownership changes occurred. During the World War II years, movie theatres became a place to escape and where audiences were shown patriotic movies and newsreels. The lobby was often used for scrap drives, war bond rallies and Red Cross drives. With the 50’s came a major competitor that affected ticket sales more than anyone could expect – television. The biggest audiences during those years were the new generation of baby boomers who came each Saturday to see the popular offerings of war movies, westerns, monster movies, and cartoons.

In the 60’s, in order to survive, many area theatres converted their buildings into multiplexes and the Rahway Theatre might have suffered the same fate had it not been in large part because of the Wurlitzer. Members of the American Theatre Organ Society became interested in the valuable instrument and began a project of restoration. By the mid 70’s the Garden State Chapter of the A.T.O.S. was using the theater as their meeting site and staged occasional organ concerts.

1978 marked the fiftieth anniversary of the theatre and an idea developed among a group of concerned citizens to start a non-profit organization to preserve and ultimately purchase the building. The idea resulted in the formation of Rahway Landmarks Inc. Their dream was realized on September 11, 1984 when after more than five years of dedicated work they gained title to the Rahway Theatre. The organization started immediately to bring the theatre back to its original glory by totally refurbishing the auditorium and lobby. A few years later, the name of the theatre was changed to the Union County Arts Center to branch out to a wider audience.

The County of Union realized the importance of having a cultural center in the county and purchased the building in 2006. After the purchase, they closed the theatre and began a major renovation program which included upgrades to lighting, sound, and HVAC. A large addition was also constructed in the rear of the building containing modern dressing rooms and “The Loft,” a theater for smaller productions. The Arts Center re-opened in 2008 and continues to provide quality programming. 2013 marks the 85th Anniversary of “The Olde Rahway Theater” and many special events are being planned for the Fall.

RAHWAY RESIDENT CARLA SOUZA AWARDED SCHOLARSHIP

The Bayway Community Advisory Panel (CAP), an organization of local community members and industry representatives from Phillips 66 Bayway Refinery, Infineum USA L.P., Cogen Technologies Linden Venture LP, and DuPont, recently awarded $1,000 scholarships to four local students: Ivan Tobal, Linden resident and senior at Union County Vo-Tech High School, who will be pursuing a degree in Mechanical Engineering; Lorens Lugo, Elizabeth resident and senior at Union County Magnet High School, who will be pursuing an Engineering degree; Carla Souza, Rahway resident and senior at Mother Seton Regional High School, who will be pursuing a Biomedical Engineering degree; and Dillon Chan, Staten Island Technical High School, who will be pursuing a degree in the Computer Science field.

The Bayway CAP meets quarterly and was formed to provide a forum for ongoing dialogue between representatives from the member companies and local community members, in order to build trust by sharing information on safety, health, the environment, security, and emergency preparedness/response. The scholarship program is one of many joint community/company activities benefitting the local communities.

In addition, two high school juniors, Claudia R. Nichols from Linden High School and Mariam Katu Binti from John E. Dwyer Technology Academy in Elizabeth, received scholarships from Infineum USA L.P., DuPont, and Cogeneration Technologies Linden Venture LP, to attend New Jersey Institute of Technology Pre-college Academy this summer to earn college credits.

Also, Shannon Murphy, a Linden High School senior, received Phillips 66 Bayway Refinery's Excellence in Science Scholarship Award to assist in her studies of Forensic

RAPIDS SWIM TEAM ANNOUNCES TRYOUTS: AUGUST 26, 27, AND 28

The YMCA of Eastern Union County “Rapids” Swim Team is back for its second season. After a very successful inaugural season the Rapids swim team is looking to keep on growing! Our team consists of 52 swimmers from all over the area; Colonia, Clark, Linden, Elizabeth, Union, Rahway, Roselle, and Roselle Park.

In the Rapids first year, we had a dual meet record of 3 wins and 3 losses, but had a great championship meet season with 90% of the team getting their personal best times at the championship meets. We participated in 8/under Championships, Bronze YMCA, and YMCA State Championships.

Our swim season runs from September through March with dual meets starting in October and the Championship meets starting in February. Our swim meets are on Saturdays and can be home at the Rahway Branch of the YMCA of Eastern Union County or at the site of the YMCA team we are competing against that week. We will be attending additional meets this year to give our swimmers more experience and more competitiveness.

Coach Ed Soder and Patt Krug believe that the Rapids are more than just a swim team. They strive to help each team member be the best they can be in the pool and throughout their lives. Coach Ed believes that every swimmer has untapped potential that is waiting to come out. One of the coaches key quotes is “If you believe you will Achieve” and that is a focus during every meet and every practice throughout the season.

The Rahway branch of the YMCA of Eastern Union County will be holding a Summer Tune-up Clinic August 12 through August 22, 2013. The clinic will meet on Mondays, Tuesdays, Wednesdays, and Thursdays from 6:00 – 7:00 PM. This clinic is a great way to get ready for the season as we will be working on endurance, starts and turns.

Tryouts for the Rapids will be held August 26, 27, and 28 (please choose one day to try out). For the 10/under age groups tryouts will be 5:30 – 7:00 Pm and for the 11/older age groups it will be 7:00 – 8:00 PM.

The Rapids are looking to make some waves in 2013-2014 – so come be a part of something bigger-join the Rapids!

BIG THINGS COMING, AND YOU'LL WANT TO TAKE PART

Submitted by Colin Gittens, President of the Friends of the Rahway Public Library.

Colin Gittens

As I write this, summer is still in full swing, with the annual cicadas having now made their appearance and, unfortunately, my formal vacation already a receding memory. But there is still plenty of warm weather to go and many opportunities for fun, and I know I'll be trying to enjoy these lazy, crazy days of summer that remain.

But before long, September will be here, with a return to school and a reengagement with the many obligations that go with that. As we all know, life has a way of getting busy and schedules fill up quickly, and before we know it we're thinking about Thanksgiving, Christmas, and the other important milestones in the year.

Which is why I'm asking you to think about setting aside time in that schedule right now, before things begin to get crazy. Participating with the Friends of the Rahway Public Library is not a huge time commitment—we meet once a month, on the second Thursday, at 7 PM in the Library—and we have been running 5–6 events during the course of the year. The beauty of the group is that you can do as much or little as you wish—we greatly appreciate all contributions of time, energy, and ideas—and because we have needs in a number of areas, you can focus your energies on your particular interests and skills.

Do you like working on the promotional end of things? We can have you writing press releases in no time! Do you have experience with other volunteer organizations? Bring your knowledge of what has worked there to us! Do you like sorting dusty books in cold, drafty environments? (OK, I'm not kidding about the last one, but lest that scare you off, we don't do that sort of thing all that frequently!)

Of particular note as we head into the second half of 2013 is that 2014 will be the 10th anniversary of the library being open in its new location in City Hall Plaza. Many may know that as the only location for the library, but the library existed previously on St Georges Ave where the tennis courts are now located, and was moved from there after being destroyed by flooding.

We'll be helping to plan a series of events to celebrate that 10-year anniversary, and because we'd like to make a splash about this wonderful resource in our community, we'd like to enlist extra help to bring about these special events that will occur during the course of the year. But events in 2014 will need to be planned beginning now, and that's where you can come in. So do enjoy the rest of your summer, but please—make a commitment to visit with us and join in, beginning on September 12. See you there!

Rahway Chamber of Commerce Member Spotlight

COLIN GITTENS

Originally from Long Beach (L.I.), Colin Gittens was drawn to Rahway, New Jersey in 2003 by our convenient access and all modes of transportation. Colin also appreciates the City's varied and colorful housing stock and long-established YMCA, with its extensive programs, services, and activities. Since the age of twenty-seven, he has been an avid swimmer. Swimming has been a pursuit he has mastered as part of a rehabilitation program.

Colin earned a Bachelor of Arts Degree in English at Rutgers University, which through diligence, he has parlayed into a career in medical publishing. Currently, Colin is the Editor with Delphi Health that is located in New York. He also sings and plays the Bass Guitar in his own band, the "Wannabees," which performs a variety of sixties pop, inspired by many groups, but most notably the Everly Brothers.

Colin has assumed a position of leadership with the "Friends of the Library" here in Rahway. Still a single guy, he is planning to adopt a dog into his home. Otherwise, he keeps in touch with his family that resides in Monmouth County. He reports that, in coming to Rahway, he planned to get involved, and the people here have responded in a favorable way.

Additionally, Colin wanted to mention that the Rahway Chamber of Commerce is a great entity for individuals as well as businesses. He went on to say that it has been and remains a positive experience for him and encourages people to join.

INSURANCE MAY NOT COVER EVERYTHING SO STAY IN TOUCH WITH FEMA

Disaster assistance may be available for losses not covered by an insurance settlement for New Jersey survivors of Superstorm Sandy.

That is why the Federal Emergency Management Agency urges survivors who have registered for disaster assistance to call the FEMA Helpline, 800-621-3362 as soon as they receive their insurance settlement.

When the insurance check finally comes it may not cover all the losses a survivor has had, so if you applied for assistance with the Federal Emergency Management Agency you should let FEMA know that you have your insurance settlement. Make sure you have the registration number FEMA assigned to your application.

If you received a letter from FEMA saying you were not eligible for assistance, part of the reason may be that your insurance settlement could not be factored into your application.

If you have already filed an appeal of the original assistance decision, that appeal may be amended based on your insurance settlement.

These are just a few of the reasons it is important applicants stay in touch with FEMA.

Survivors who have registered for assistance should keep their contact information current to ensure timely delivery of important assistance updates.

Keeping one's contact information current with FEMA will also help connect survivors with FEMA's home inspectors. Unnecessary delays may occur if an inspector is unable to reach an applicant by phone to schedule an appointment. Applicants are also urged to keep their appointments with home inspectors in order to avoid delays.

Applicants who need to update their contact information or who have questions regarding their application can call the toll-free FEMA helpline, 800-621-3362, from 10 a.m. - 7 p.m., seven days a week. Help is available in most languages.

FEMA'S MISSION

FEMA's mission is to support our citizens and first responders to ensure that as a nation we work together to build, sustain, and improve our capability to prepare for, protect against, respond to, recover from, and mitigate all hazards.

HOTLINE AVAILABLE FOR FLOOD MAP INFORMATION

As the Federal Emergency Management Agency continues to release Preliminary Work Maps of flood zones in New Jersey, residents with questions about National Flood Insurance Program policies have a helpline to call to get the most up-to-date information.

New Jersey residents who need information about flood insurance based on the newly released National Flood Insurance Program Preliminary Work Maps for New Jersey may call 877-287-9804 from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Policyholders with questions or concerns about their claims may also speak with NFIP specialists at 877-287-9804.

The helpline operates from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., Monday through Friday. Additional information is available at www.floodsmart.gov.

Additional information about the coastal mapping efforts and Hurricane Sandy recovery can be found on the Region 2 Coastal Analysis Mapping website at www.region2coastal.com.

TRINITAS AGAIN ACHIEVES “MOST WIRED HOSPITAL” DESIGNATION

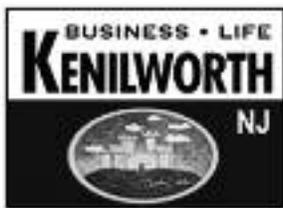

One of Nine NJ institutions to show commitment to electronic records push

Elizabeth, New Jersey Trinitas Regional Medical Center, which provides health care to those who live and work in Central New Jersey, has again received accolades for its commitment and progress in information management from Hospitals & Health Networks' (H&HN) 15th annual Health Care's Most Wired Survey. The medical center has been named one of nine health care institutions in the state to achieve “Most Wired” status.

According to H&HN, many more hospitals now use technologies that improve patient documentation, advance clinical decision support and evidence-based protocols, reduce the likelihood of medication errors, and rapidly restore access to data in the case of a disaster or outage. That's much improved from a few short years ago, when in 2007, HH&N reports that “just 58 percent of Most Wired hospitals had systems capable of producing real-time alerts on drug-to-drug interactions.”

Trinitas has been on the crest of this technology tsunami. Judy Comitto, Vice President of Information Services/Chief Information Officer at Trinitas, notes: “When legislation was enacted in 2009 to spur a greater use of technology in information management, we easily focused our existing health information technology efforts in electronic data sharing and retrieval to transition to ‘meaningful use’ in order to assure patient safety.” This has meant such changes as electronic order entry for physician use that makes physician directives easier to read and the creation of electronic medication information that helps reduce medication errors. “Moreover, Trinitas has been one of the ‘prime movers’ in the establishment of New Jersey Health Connect. As one of the early adopters of this health information exchange initiative, Trinitas has had a significant influence in the growth of this program of sharing clinical information statewide among hospitals and physicians’ offices. Our Emergency Department is heavily involved in this sharing program and our emergency patients have benefitted immeasurably from this sharing.”

In order to qualify for consideration as a “Most Wired” hospital, Ms. Comitto reports that Trinitas’ Information Technology Department completed a multi-page survey that provided thorough details on its technology infrastructure, how wireless technology is used in business and administrative management, how such technology influences and ensures clinical quality and safety measures for inpatient and outpatient services, and the importance of wireless technology in the continuum of care as it involves ambulatory care, physicians and the community.

“To receive this ‘Most Wired’ designation again attests to our commitment to making electronic information management part of doing the business of healthcare effectively and compassionately every day at Trinitas,” Ms. Comitto sums up. “Trinitas understands that integrated systems help caregivers give the highest level of patient care in a safe and secure environment.”

(above) Geraldo Capo, MD a hematologist with the Trinitas Comprehensive Cancer Center, is among the nearly 80 percent of Trinitas physicians who use electronic ordering. Trinitas Regional Medical Center captured “Most Wired Hospital” status as a result of its advanced electronic systems for patient records, test ordering and image viewing. Also, Trinitas has one of the highest percentages in the state among physicians who place orders electronically. Computerized Physician Order Entry (CPOE) reduces the likelihood of errors that may result from hand written test ordering.
