Message from the President

SMILE! SOMEONE'S LISTENING. (CHANNELING MY INNER ANDY ROONEY)

Don't mind me I'm just a bit annoyed today. I've been on the phone all morning talking to clients, vendors and the always wonderful telemarketer. It seems that everyone I speak to today, has a problem. I can't blame it on a full moon since its 11:30am, but something strange is happening out there.

The first call I made was to a vendor. The person answered or should say mumbled this greeting "So and So Paper Company". Now that may seem OK but it was said in a way that made me feel like I was annoying him. I asked for the person I wanted to speak to and I was put on hold. Not – May I ask who's calling? Not – He is not in, may I take a message? Not – I'll transfer you to his line. He just put me on hold. After a few seconds the line started ringing. It rang 5 times, paused, rang 5 times again, paused and rang another 5 times. After that it bounced back to the first person I spoke to. He answered with a sarcastic "Can I help you?" I said apparently not and hung up.

The next call I made was to a client. She must have been involved in another conversation because when she answered she didn't say hello, she continued talking to the other person. Now I was annoyed. I said hello so and so. She responded: Hold on, I am talking to someone. Wow! I thought. Is this really happening? Am I in the Twilight Zone? So I hung up.

Next, I received a call. It was a telemarketer. I know this because I answered – Mr. B Printing, may I help you? and there was silence on the other end. Then a few seconds later, I heard random voices in the background. Then finally, the caller, announced as fast as they could. Who pays the electric bill? Switch to us and we'll save you money! We will have someone stop by tomorrow to switch your service to our program. I quickly replied: No thank you and hung up.

Right about now, you are asking yourself has Tom gone over the edge? And is there a point to this story? Well, I'm not over the edge but I am close to it. The point to the story is simple. If you are speaking to a client, a vendor, a spouse, a friend or anyone else, consider saying it with a smile. When you smile when you speak, people can hear it.

EXCITING INTERNSHIP STORY SHARED WITH STUDENTS

by Maryjane Finne

Emmilyne Victor, 2009 graduate of Rahway High School, recently returned to her AP (Advanced Placement) English Language and Composition teacher, JoAnn Bertelo's class to share with Ms. Bertelo's current students the exciting internship opportunities she has had this year in Washington, D.C. For her former teacher, hearing of her student's success brings her great satisfaction. In September, Emmilyne will return to her senior year at Howard University, where she is a broadcast journalism major and minors in political science.

In September and early October, Emmilyne spent seven weeks on Capitol Hill, seeing government from the inside, while interning at the office of New Jersey Senator Robert Menendez. The past six months she has spent as the evening news intern at Washington, D.C. Channel 5, FOX television. She conducted research for the news team, went out into the field to record sound bites, some of which were used on-screen, and did studio interviews. She actually spent election night at the White House helping the news team report. Currently, she is a finalist and awaits hearing from CNN about a full-year Washington internship.

While at Howard, Ms. Victor has worked on the student television station WHUT as well as being editor for The Hilltop, the student newspaper. This parallels her experience at Rahway High School, where she was part of Kudos broadcast journalism program, and at the same time Editor-in-Chief of the school yearbook and on the staff of the school newspaper, Rho Eta Sigma.

RAHWAY HIGH SCHOOL STUDENT ENTERPRISE FUNDS EXCITING TRIP

On a beautiful sunny Friday recently, Rahway High School student members of CLAW (Children Learning About Work), directed by Ms. Patricia Williams, took the field trip of a lifetime, travelling by Hummer limousine to New York City to visit landmarks that included the Wax Museum. This trip was totally self-funded by the profits of CLAW's holiday gift sale conducted this past December, so it incurred no cost for the Board of Education. CLAW members are grateful to faculty and staff members for their support in purchasing gifts.

The purpose of CLAW is to give students hands-on learning in advertising, assembly, computation of profit margins, and operation of a cash register. The payoff for all their hard work comes in the form of an annual field trip, which has usually been by taken by public transit. Therefore, the limousine ride was a major upgrade and a source of great excitement for the students.

(above) Alberto Duran, a member of Rahway High School's CLAW program, is about to board the Hummer limousine for the annual field trip to New York City. The limo ride was funded by the profits of a student-run enterprise.

TAKE A WALK ON THE WILD SIDE

Just over the Rahway Linden border, tucked away where you would least expect it you will find 'HAWK RISE SANCTUARY'. The sanctuary opened May 30, 2012 thanks to Green Acres, the N.J. Audubon Society and the city of Linden. While in this 95-acre park, it is easy to forget you are in an industrial area. At Hawk Rise, the forest meets the salt marsh and grassy areas of the now closed Linden landfill.

This is perfect habitat for many birds and wildlife, including hawks, owls and even wild turkeys. Thousands of migrating birds can be viewed seasonally. Wooden pathways with interpretive signs lead you through the marsh land along the Rahway River, protecting the environment and plant life. It is a great location for a relaxing stroll or hike.

Hawk Rise is located directly across from the Linden Animal Shelter, on Range Road off Barnet Street (East Grand Ave. turns in Barnet). Be aware that it is not well marked so don't depend on signs to direct you to the sanctuary.

Due to the delicate balance of this environment, NO DOGS are permitted. Please remember: Take only photographs; leave only footprints.

Happy Gardening, James

Rahway resident gardener "Extraordinaire" James Keane, has been researching and answering garden questions since 1995.

REMEMBER TO WATER WELL

We can't stop the rain but we can shut off the faucet. Lawns, vegetables and garden plants require only one inch of water a week. When we get a heavy rainfall cut down on watering and turn off your automatic watering systems. Overwatering leads to roots disease and fungus.

KEEPING YOUR TREES HEALTHY

SAVE THE DATE:

RAHWAY HIGH SCHOOL STUDENT GOVERNMENT ASSOCIATION SPONSORS BLOOD DRIVE

On the Friday before Memorial Day weekend, most people are looking to relax and ease into the weekend. Many students and faculty at Rahway High School, however, spent Friday, May 24, 2013 rolling up their sleeves, either to donate blood or to help others do so. Over 78 people, both staff and older students, made appointments to give blood to save the lives of others. Rahway High School's Student Government Association (SGA) sponsored this event with the help of teacher-advisors Donna Gerardo and Steve Radler through the auspices of the New York Blood Center. In addition to the blood actually collected, the drive also provided an opportunity to young people to establish the habit of giving blood, a habit that will benefit the communities in which they dwell throughout their lives.

6TH GRADERS STUDENTS SKILLED IN ROBOTICS

PARTICIPATION IN ROBOTICS TEAM GAINS LOCAL STUDENT $24,000 SCHOLARSHIP

Because of his involvement with the Rahway High School US FIRST Robotics Team 1228, Stevens Institute of Technology has awarded a FIRST merit scholarship to Robert Dinocento. Robert will major in Mechanical Engineering and minor in Business at Stevens. He has chosen Stevens because of its excellence in engineering and the small student to teacher ratio (8:1).

Dinocento attends the Union County Magnet High School, but as a Rahway resident, participates in Rahway High School's Robotics Team and has been involved since he was a student at Rahway Middle School, where he was on the Botball Team. Participation in US FIRST Robotics has made him aware of practical aspects of mechanical engineering and helped him learn how to create a competitive edge, a valuable skill when he joins the work force. Each year in January, a 45-day build season begins. During that period, robotics teams throughout the country each build a robot that fits the requirements for that year's competition. Over his years as a FIRST member, Dinocento has built and wired the robots, as well as competed against rival robots in the competition. Since colleges look for students to be well-rounded, Robert feels that his background in FIRST was definitely a plus in college admissions.

In support of the US FIRST mission, numbers of colleges offer FIRST Scholarships. The Stevens scholarship is merit-based and awarded to a high school senior who has participated on a FIRST team during his or her junior and/or senior years and plans to study engineering, science, or math at Stevens. The scholarship is renewable up to a total of $24,000 over four years, contingent upon maintenance of good academic standing.

Team 1228 at Rahway High School and its advisors congratulate Robert for his accomplishment and wish him well during his time at Stevens, but hope he returns as a team alumni member to support their work.

WES ZIENTEK CLAIMS 4TH EMMY AWARD

On what seemed to be a normal day at the office, Wes Zientek found out his work on the show "MLB Tonight" had helped earn the station an Emmy Award. "I was sitting in the control room when we all found out," said Zientek. "The producers came in and brought in the Emmy Award they received on stage. We were ecstatic, because it was only our second year on air." Two years and three awards later, Wesley said that receiving each award was just as exciting as the first Emmy.

Zientek works as an associate producer on the MLB [Major League Baseball] Network. After graduating from High School in 1997, Zientek went on to Wilkes University in Wilkes-Barre, Pa., graduating in 2001 with a degree in sociology. Despite the doubt of others and a degree not related to the field, Zientek never let the dream of a job in sports travel too far from his mind, even when his prospects looked glum.

Wes's father is Dr. Mark Zientek who owns Dr.s Choice healthcare facility in Rahway, NJ. "A friend of my dad's knew the coordinating producer for College Sports Television in New York," Zientek said. "With the contacts I made in the profession, I was able to land a job working for the MLB Network.

Expert care is closer than you think.

ALISON DOOLEY NAMED TEACHER OF THE YEAR

In recognition of her record of success with her students and her efforts in promoting the arts at Rahway High School dance teacher Alison Dooley has been named "Teacher of the Year." In announcing the award, Principal John Farinella issued thanks on behalf of the whole school community to Alison for her meaningful and memorable contributions.

Most recently, two of her students were chosen by Paper Mill Playhouse as members of their new Show Choir. Currently, because of her efforts, Rahway High School is participating in Paper Mill's "Adopt-a-School" project that extends over four years, giving her students the opportunity for on-site participation at the Playhouse and in-school residencies with extraordinary industry professionals.

Two years ago, Rahway won Paper Mill's Educational Impact Award when the school produced West Side Story, a play about gangs in New York City in the 1950s. The award was given for her efforts in marshalling the staff to connect the musical to the curriculum for actors and actresses and all school students. Classes in the school as well as organizations in the community studied the issue of gangs at the same time as the play was being staged. Rahway's diverse school population allowed for authentic Latin casting of the Sharks and a sincere understanding of the triumph of spirit over the obstacles often faced by immigrants.

The most exciting of her achievements was in 2009, when Rahway High School's production of Will Rogers Follies won four of Paper Mill's Rising Star Awards, including the coveted Best Overall Musical, as well as Best Director for Alison. At that time, in receiving the award, she mentioned her philosophy, what she had been asking her students during the weeks of rehearsals, "Why would you settle for good, when you are capable of great?"

Teaching six classes every year, Alison has given many Rahway students an appreciation for dance that is obvious any time one views the school broadcast station, Kudos. Nearly every video they produce has some dancing in it, as do many fundraisers like Dancing with the Staff, where students choreograph for their teachers. Alison Dooley has enriched the whole community with her efforts.

K & K RECOGNITION AWARDS, TONY FERRARO, PROPRIETOR.

Written by: Tony Hall and Gerry Gessie

Located at the Lewis Street end of the Cherry Street Mall since 2005 is K & K Recognition Awards, Tony Ferraro, Proprietor. Tony was instrumental in restarting the Rahway Chamber of Commerce back in 2010 and has served as a Trustee since its inception.

Originally from Union (U.H.S. class of 1970), Tony ventured west upon graduation, to Loris College in Iowa, attracted there by superior programs in sports and business administration. After graduating in 1974, Tony went on to become a traffic Manager for a major German steel company in the U.S., where he met his wife-to-be, Phyllis. They married in 1981 and have two children, Anthony III and Dana, both now in their early twenties.

In 1992, the steel company closed their U.S. operations. That same year, Tony, bought K & K located in South Plainfield. The move to Rahway came in 2003 in response to his growing local customer base. A few years later he expanded the business and moved it to its present location in the Cherry Street Mall.

Tony frankly asserts that profit is the greatest pleasure in running a business, although he values highly, his many friendships that have arisen from among his numerous customers. He sums up his work ethic simply “competition cures complacency,” an observation he coined upon returning from a visit to Romania shortly after its collapse.

K & K Recognition Awards is a “One Man Operation” and the best place in Rahway for trophies, plaques and awards. K & K’s products are of the highest quality and offered at reasonable prices.

K&K showroom is located at 75 East Cherry St., Suite 1A, Downtown Rahway. Or Visit K & K on the web at www.KandKRec.blogspot.com or call Tony at 732-499-7772.

RAHWAY HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS AND FACULTY PRESENT "A DAY IN PARIS" BENEFIT

On Friday, May 10, the students and faculty of Rahway High School presented "A Day in Paris," a tribute to fashion and song in the "City of Light," sponsored by YWL (Young Women Leaders) to benefit a local non-profit organization, Healing and Helping Women In Our Communities. The event, which raised nearly $1,000, was coordinated, staged, and directed by Ms. Annette Gust-Goodman and Mr. Rob Kinch, teacher of French. Purchase of an admission ticket gave students entitlement to select one of the donated prom dresses modeled that evening.

RAHWAY HIGH SCHOOL STAFF CREATES EXCITING PROGRAM FOR BRING YOUR CHILD TO WORK

Exciting experiences awaited 23 young people whose parents are employed on the staff of Rahway High School during Bring Your Child to Work Day Events. Staff members teamed together to expand the program offered beyond spending time in classes or offices where the parent worked. Teacher Diane Pescatore and Social Worker Eryn Latorra coordinated all activities, recruited teachers, and accompanied the children along with Paraprofessional Yamira Burnjeko. Math teacher Tammy Taggart taught students to create tangrams, mathematical puzzles. In the computer lab, teacher Maryjane Finne helped the students consider their future plans by utilizing an online dream calculator. She also taught them how to use Microsoft Photostory, enabling each to create and bring home a personal DVD recording the day's events. One student included a photo she labeled "My New Best Friend." Diane Pescatore created a science experiment utilizing Skittles candy, quite popular since the children were allowed to eat the results (Skittles) at the end of the lab. Fred Stueber led the group in physical activities in his role as a gym teacher. History teacher and lawyer, Clifford Herrington taught them about "The Art of Cross Examination" using popular movie, My Cousin Vinny. When students stopped by school nurse, Charlene Lesinski gave them a chance to pick out small gifts like necklaces and robots.

Administrators were accessible to the children. Principal John Farinella met with the children while they were working on their videos in the computer lab and they told him about their day. Vice Principal Chey Rivera invited them to her office and spoke to them about the importance of education. She showed them the prom dresses that a student organization, Young Women Leaders, had collected for a fashion show and resale to students that will take place soon. Superintendent Edward Yergalonis dropped in during lunch as did Vice Principal Cantagallo. Students were treated to a pizza lunch by the school administrators.

Many staff members were enthusiastic at the end of the day about what had taken place. Gym teachers Maria Hennessy and Ricky Ortega and chemistry teacher Janet Tuohy both have already volunteered for next year to create activities for the children.

Both children and their parents gave rave reviews to the event and planning that went into it. Teacher Jeffrey Romano said his daughter wanted to return the next day because it had been so much fun. John Brighthouse told his father David that he wished his father taught an afterschool class so they could stay longer, because "this place is awesome." Elijah and Abigail Rodriguez, Carmen Sierra's children are already excited about next year, and Gary Mendes' daughter Zara already has convinced her brother to join her next year. Kudos and thanks to all those who helped out.

FRIENDS FIND FAVOR AMONG RACE PARTICIPANTS

Submitted by Colin Gittens, President of the Friends of the Rahway Public Library.

Colin Gittens

A total of 28 teams—the most ever!—participated in the third annual Amazing Rahway Race, a fundraiser for the Friends of the Rahway Public Library held as part of Rahway Day on Saturday, May 4. And the reviews from participants taking part in this scavenger hunt event were glowing.

“The Amazing Rahway Race may be one of the most fun things I’ve done in a while!” said Rachael Faillace, who, when not running around downtown Rahway searching for clues is executive director of the Rahway Arts District.

The hunt involved a series of clues that took participants around various downtown locales—these could be an intersection, a restaurant or store, or simply to meet a Friends volunteer along the way—to either pick up information or complete a task. And along the way, many participants learned something new.

For example, although much of downtown Rahway is familiar to residents, numerous racers came back to the finish line and said the race had provided their first introduction to Hellhound Studios on Coach Street. Other racers had no idea that it was possible to move an Oreo from their foreheads to their mouths without using their hands! They (especially children) certainly had a great time acquiring this knowledge!

The team from Classic Comics set a new course record, completing the event in 1:17:50. This was the top time overall and the first among the business entrants. The Outsiders had the top time among general participants (1:32:06), while Red, White and Blue-yah! garnered the award for best costume.

“Great clues, great weather, great people...fantastic day!” raved Helene Leprince. Pam Okaly, another participant, signaled her appreciation and eagerness to do it again, saying “Thanks for organizing a great race. Extremely well organized. Can’t wait for next year!”

With this event complete, the Friends now look ahead to Saturday, June 29. In partnership with Innovative Document Imaging of East Brunswick, we’ll be sponsoring a Digital Conversion Day. Those who took part last year know that this service allows photos and images from older formats—think 8 and 16 mm film, VHS tapes, slides, and photos (including entire photo albums)—to be scanned and saved into a more up-to-date format viewable on televisions, computers, and other digital devices.

This service seems even more timely and important in the post-Sandy world. I know from our recent book sale that last fall’s “superstorm” caused much water damage to homes, either by flooded basements or roof damage, and the number of book donations was down. Perhaps your photographs and memories were damaged, or perhaps you were lucky. Either way, making additional copies of these in a more current format is wise.

Best of all, 20% of the fees associated with these digital conversions will go to support the library. Please bring your materials to the library lobby on June 29, between noon and 3 PM.

Using Science and Critical Thinking to Solve Crimes

Rahway's 6th grade gifted and talented students in Mrs. Rubino, Mrs. Cilia, Mrs. Geis and Ms. Haywood's classes gathered at the Grover Cleveland School Library on Wednesday, May 22nd, to investigate "The Case of the Blazing Books". After a unit on forensic science, it was time for the students to crack the case. The students examined evidence left at the scene, interviewed suspects (staff members), and used critical thinking to connect all of the clues and eliminate suspects. Students felt like real investigators with a true-to-life simulation of a crime.

RAHWAY REMEMBERS: HE LIT THE STREETS OF RAHWAY

Submitted by Al Shipley, City historian and Rahway Library research consultant

Nicola Tesla is widely regarded as America's greatest electrical engineer. In a career that spanned almost seventy years (1875–1943), Tesla became a world renowned inventor, physicist, mechanical engineer, and electrical engineer, whose patents and theoretical work form the basis of modern alternating current (AC) electric power systems. He also made contributions in the fields of robotics, ballistics, computer science, nuclear physics, and theoretical physics. His admirers often refer to him as "The man who invented the 20th Century." Citizens of Rahway can be proud that this important genius has a connection to our city.

Tesla came to the United States in 1884 with a letter of introduction addressed to Thomas Edison from the English inventor, Charles Batchelor. In part, the letter said, "I know two great men and you are one of them; the other is this young man." Edison hired the twenty-eight year old scientist, but their union was confrontational from the start and lasted less than a year. Tesla's insistence on the potential of alternating current and the need for more strenuous research with AC was dismissed by Edison. Their disagreements caused continual tension and after a misunderstanding over a $50,000 bet, Tesla left Edison's employ and formed a company under his own name. The headquarters of the newly formed Tesla Electric Light Company was Rahway, New Jersey.

The year was 1885 when Tesla set up his laboratory in the Randolph Ross Building which was located on Irving Street between Coach Street and Elizabeth Avenue. Within a year, he had perfected his electric arc lamp and approached the Common Council with a proposal to light the city streets with electric lamps. Edison had lighted a few Roselle streets in January, 1883, and Tesla was anxious to better his rival by demonstrating the superior quality of alternating current. The Common Council voted to grant Tesla a contract in June, 1886, making Rahway one of the first cities in the world to have street lighting powered by AC.

The two-year contract called for the number of lights not to exceed thirty-five, spaced a quarter mile apart. Cost of each light would be fixed at $75.00/lamp/year, which was less than the cost for lighting by DC. The lamps would burn from dusk to 1:00 a.m., eighteen nights per month. (They were to be lit on moonless nights only. A member of Council was assigned to instruct the company to light the lamps on evenings when the moon was obscured by clouds).

The system ran well, but the contract was voided before the two years were up. The Rahway Gas Company, a powerful lobby in town and suppliers of gas for street lamps since the 1840's, was incensed when Council opted for the new power source. Gas Company representatives attended Council meetings and lodged complaints about everything from pole placement, to destruction of curbing, to poor service, to exorbitant costs. (The Gas Company's cost for lighting the streets was $17.50/lamp/year). Council members ultimately acquiesced to the pressure and voted to cancel the contract with Tesla.

Tesla left Rahway and went to New York City where he continued to build on what would become an incredible legacy of achievements. Rahway can boast that it is part of that legacy.

SELLING YOUR HOME? We have BUYERS!
STRIKER REALTY CARES ABOUT RAHWAY HOMEOWNERS

As most of you know, Striker Realty, the largest Real Estate Brokerage in Rahway, has proudly helped hundreds of families buy and sell their most prized financial possession, their home. It has brought us great joy and satisfaction whenever we could help you proudly purchase your dream home, your first home or sell your existing home.

Recently, we have had several 'Legacy' properties come to us for sale or liquidation. We think of these properties as Legacy properties because they are either the largest homes on the block, that unique home that we always pass by or the home that we all played hide-and-seek in the yard of when we were growing up.

Well, we have a number of these homes that we all know and love that have become 'distressed' due to illness, recent storms, loss of a loved one, financial difficulty or other reasons.

I would love for these 'Legacy' homes to be purchased by people who care about our Rahway Community, who would love to give these homes a little love and be happy to move into them. Once these homes reach the market, they are open to all investors to buy, sell and/or rent. I like investors, I am one myself, but here is your opportunity to buy a Legacy property yourself, or refer someone whom you would like to be your neighbor.

...And, I'm certain that these longtime Rahway homeowners who have to sell their property because of a distressed situation would be happier if someone bought it, moved in and loved it the way they did.

If this might be you, please call or email me Carmen@StrikerRealty.com. 732-669-9090.

We have 40+ professional real estate agents in our office who care. Thank you, and we look forward to serving you and the community. Carmen Tyler McLendon, Broker for Striker Realty and it's Agents who Care.
