MEETING ELEANOR ROOSEVELT

After her successful program about Julia Child, actress Linda Kenyon returned to the Warren Library, by popular demand, to portray Eleanor Roosevelt, one of America's most celebrated and outspoken First Ladies. This play 'A Life of My Own: Meeting Eleanor Roosevelt' is based on one of Roosevelt's trips. Through humor and poignant historical quotes, Kenyon delves into the happiest moments in Roosevelt's life, as well as some darker, more controversial aspects of the Roosevelts' marriage. This program took place at the Warren Court Room, next to the library.

WARREN STUDENT IS REGIONAL FINALIST IN 2013 SIEMENS COMPETITION

Peter Shim, a resident of Warren Township and a junior at Pingry School in Basking Ridge, NJ, and Ji Won Lim, a senior at Chote Rosemary Hall, CT, were selected as a team regional finalist in 2013 SIEMENS COMPETITION IN MATH, SCIENCE & TECHNOLOGY, the nation's premier research competition for high school students. Their research, about number theory, is titled, "On numbers that cannot be expressed as the sum or difference between a Fibonacci number and a prime."

After months of dedication and hard work, Peter and Ji Won proved the existence of infinitely many positive integers that cannot be expressed as the sum or difference of a Fibonacci number and a prime. In addition, their research showed that there exist infinitely many pairs of consecutive integers and powers in which both numbers satisfy the property.

The 2013 Siemens Competition generated unprecedented participation; a record 2,440 students registered for this year's competition. A total of 1,599 projects were submitted for consideration in science, math and technology subjects. "These incredible students have invested significant time and energy to advance research and exploration," said David Etwiler, CEO of the Siemens Foundation.

Peter studied number theory problem regarding the existence of a number expressible as a combination of a sum or difference between a Fibonacci number and a prime that helps set a platform for a new study of mathematics. While not necessarily of immediate practical significance, it is an example of advancement of our knowledge in an old and challenging field.

Peter demonstrates a deep love of mathematics and science. His experience participating in a number theory course during the summer inspired him to expand upon this experience with this project. He is also a 2013 Biology Olympiad Semi-Finalist. He volunteers at the school's Math Center, contributes articles to Pingry Records and Vital Signs, and competes on his school's squash team. In addition, Peter is accomplished clarinetist and plays for his school Jazz Band. He was also a co-captain of his school's debate team and competes in debate tournaments. Peter plans to pursue a career in mathematics or science.

WARREN RESIDENT'S FIRM DONATES TO FOOD BANK IN HONOR OF CLIENTS

MACRO Consulting Group in Parsippany made a recent donation of $10,000 to the Community Food Bank of New Jersey in honor of their clients this holiday season.

A few staff members were able to visit the facility to deliver the donation and see how this organization makes a difference every day.

They said it was remarkable to learn that the seven football field facility was originally started by handing out groceries from the back of a car by President and CEO, Kathleen DiChiara.

WHAT A SIGHT!

Submitted by Warren Township Schools

What a sight! All 5th grade students at Angelo L. Tomaso School in Warren have been studying Microworlds in Science. They have been learning how to use the microscope and make observations about their specimens which they then record and discuss. Pictured here, Mrs. Mary Lynch and her students are inspecting a dead trout under the laptop microscope, which the ALT PTO had graciously purchased. These 5th graders participate in Trout in the Classroom, which is run through the NJ Fish and Wildlife organization where they raise trout from eggs and then release them in April into a pond.

STUDENTS PROMOTE PEACE TO THE WORLD

Submitted by Warren Township Schools

Give Peace A Chance! Warren Middle School students had the opportunity to participate in The Lions International Peace Poster Contest. Students were encouraged to express what peace means to them in response to the 2013-2014 theme, "Our World, Our Future." The goal is to inspire greater tolerance and international understanding. The artwork created by Lindsey Shi, 8th grade, won at the Warren Lions Club local level. Additionally, the mayor of Warren asked to frame it and plans to proudly display Lindsey's design in town hall. What an honor!

CAREER EXPO ENRICHMENT AT MOUNT HOREB SCHOOL

Research demonstrates that providing students with career education at an early age is beneficial for several reasons! It opens doors for students by presenting an array of options, motivating them to research and pursue new interests. It allows children to set individual goals for new learning. Additionally, it relates school studies to real world experiences. As part of a REACH enrichment opportunity, Mrs. Wendy Piller, Mrs. Michele Cebula, Mrs. Michele Gaglioti, Mr. Andrew Ahimovic, Mrs. Kara Miletic and Mrs. Jill Ziobo have planned a 21st century learning career experience. This career expo will be open to fourth and fifth grade Mount Horeb students on Friday, February 7th, from 6:15-7:30.

The educators have assembled a well-represented assortment of careers. A sampling of some of the evening's professionals includes a composer, an American Sign Language interpreter, an author, a medical doctor, a television producer and an expert in marketing. Prior to the event students will have the chance to select their choice of workshops they would like to attend. After listening to an in-depth job description from a specialist, students will be given a career related problem to solve. For example, when working with the composer, students might be asked to write lyrics to a particular tune while focusing on a specific topic or theme. After working with the interpreter for the hearing impaired, students might create sentences welcoming new students to Mount Horeb School by using official American Sign Language.

Parents are welcome too! Parents are invited to partake in the evening while attending a parallel workshop that will teach adults about 21st century learning. In comparable fashion to the students, they will be given a similar career scenario which includes a problem to solve. Through this hands-on method, parents will view firsthand how 21st century learning impacts their children. The six educators who designed and are organizing this experience are acting as mentors as well. They are training the career professionals to host their workshops using 21st century lesson plans. It is sure to be an amazing experience for all!
