TASTE OF SPRING FEATURED GREAT FOOD, WINE AND LIQUOR

Over 1,000 people attended Rahway's Taste of Spring which was held on April 11th in the Rahway Recreation Center and adjacent catering tents off Milton Ave. East in Downtown Rahway.

The event featured food tastings from food establishments from Rahway and the surrounding metro area and was generously supported by Witty's Fine Wine and Liquors who had 32 individual fine wine/aperitif/boutique beer tasting stations dispersed throughout the event.

Vinil Patel and his partner Mahesh Amin purchased Witty's, located at 870 St. Georges Avenue in Rahway, on February 14, 2014. Witty's has had a long tradition of serving the Rahway Community. The store is going through a total renovation scheduled to be completed by the end of May 2014.

Patel brings a long tradition of running a quality liquor store. He also owns Metro Liquors also located on St. Georges Avenue just over the Rahway/Linden border. Like he has done at Metro in Linden, Patel will support the community in Rahway. The Taste of Spring gave him the opportunity to introduce his business to residents. Attendees were able to sample, wine, craft beers, whiskey, rum, vodka, Champaign, liquors, and tequila. Representatives from several manufacturers and distributors were on hand to answer questions about the brands. All the product and servers were donated by Whitty's and its suppliers.

The success of the event was due to the generous giving of time and food by the participating restaurants. The event which features music and vendors was also supported by donations from sponsors.

A MEMORIAL DAY TRIBUTE: RAHWAY AIRMAN REMEMBERED IN FRENCH WORLD WAR II MUSEUM

Submitted by Al Shipley, City historian and Rahway Library Research Consultant

By the end of World War II, over 2,400 men and women who called Rahway their home, had enlisted in the Armed Forces of the United States. Fifty-eight servicemen from that number made the Supreme Sacrifice in the defense of their country. Unfortunately, with the passage of time, most of the stories of the valor shown by all of these brave, young, citizen-soldiers have been lost or forgotten. Only by serendipitous chance did one account surface three years ago that may serve as a Memorial Day tribute to all who served.

As City Historian and research consultant for the library, I routinely receive calls, letters, and emails from all across the country and even from places around the world. In April, 2011, I was contacted by Dan Corson, a gentleman from Denver, Colorado, who was trying to locate a photo of his uncle, Lieut. Mark Conner. Lieut. Conner was a navigator/gunner who was aboard a B17 Flying Fortress that was downed by German fighter planes while on a bombing raid over German Occupied French Territory on December 20, 1942. Mr. Corson, the Intergovernmental Services Director at the Colorado Historical Society, had been told by his grandparents years ago that his uncle was from Rahway, New Jersey.

A month before he contacted me, Corson had made a pilgrimage to the Normandy Beach Memorials and Cemeteries which included a tour of the French countryside. During his travels he passed through Tosny, a small village north-west of Paris on the Seine River, where he stopped at a local museum which housed artifacts from WWII. While looking through the exhibits, he was shocked to come across a display case that was dedicated to his uncle and the other eight airmen who were shot down. The display contained items recovered from the crash and photos of five of the nine crew members, none of which pictured his uncle. Corson wasted no time searching out the museum director who turned out to be an 82 year old Frenchman named Jean Erisay. In a lengthy conversation, the Frenchman related how he had lived in Tosny his entire life and had first-hand experience of the war and the German Occupation. He was deeply affected by the conflict and as a result it became his life's work to gather relics from the war, enough to eventually establish a museum. Ironically, the same display which had caught the attention of Corson, also had special meaning for Erisay. As a young boy he had actually witnessed the air fight and crash and had gathered several remnants which would become the start of his collection.

Erisay described the incident as follows:

"I was ten years old when the B17-41-24432 crashed at Bernieres s/ Seine on 20 December, 1942 at noon. That Sunday I was returning from Mass from my church when the sky became covered with B17s. They were being attacked by Fw 190 German Focke-Wulfs. One single B17 found itself at the back of the formation. A few minutes later a big explosion and a large white cloud rose in the sky. The B17 Danellen just crashed!

"That afternoon I went to the site with my two uncles. What a tragedy! Fragments covered the ground, trees were covered with bits of parachute fabric, motors torn from their housing, and torn apart bombs of which the yellow dynamite was still apparent.

"The Germans exploded the bombs a few days later. German soldiers guarded the site and ran off the curious. I knelt down and gathered the housing of a camera and a small oil can which I slipped into my jacket behind the back of a German soldier.

"The members of the air team had defended themselves well against the attacks of the Fw 190s.

Many hundreds of casings of 50 were pulled from the site. The blade of a screw propeller and the lighter of M. Bacon were found by magnetic detection thirty years later."

Erisay was overjoyed to learn that Corson was the nephew of one of the airmen and might possibly be able to locate material which could be added to the display. When Corson got back to Colorado he contacted the Merchants and Drovers Museum hoping he might get lucky and find a photo or at least some information about his uncle from Rahway.

Corson did get lucky. Within a week I sent him a photo and a copy of his uncle's obituary which he forwarded to the French museum. "Mr. Erisay will be delighted," he wrote back.

A tourist makes a chance stop into a small village museum, and has the uncanny good fortune to meet a local Frenchman who spent his life preserving history. In this unusual twist of fate, a war story was brought to light. One story about one airman, yet it reminds us of the sacrifice made by the thousands and thousands who served in our military, all of whom have compelling stories. Memorial Day is a good time to remember.

RAHWAY HIGH SCHOOL STUDENT TO GET UNIQUE LOOK AT U.S. NAVAL ACADEMY WHILE ATTENDING FAST-PACED SUMMER SEMINAR

Annapolis, Md.- The U.S. Naval Academy (USNA) invited a select group of approximately 2,550 young men and women from around the nation and abroad to attend the Naval Academy Summer Seminar program this year. Summer Seminar is a fast-paced leadership experience for rising seniors in high school. This program helps educate, motivate and prepare selected students who are considering applying for admission to USNA.

Phillip Schroeder, a student at Rahway High School, will participate in the 2014 U.S. Naval Academy Summer Seminar program. Summer Seminar teaches prospective applicants about life at the Naval Academy, where academics, athletics, and professional training are key elements in developing our nation's leaders. Each student will attend a six-day session and experience a glimpse of USNA life. Students will have the opportunity to live in Bancroft Hall, eat in King Hall along with participating in academic and leadership workshops. They will also participate in daily physical training involving group runs and conditioning exercises. They will experience first-hand what the Naval Academy has to offer through its exceptional academic, athletic, extracurricular activities and leadership training programs.

The Summer Seminar has an academic focus, with each student attending eight 90-minute workshops, covering subjects from information technology, naval architecture and mechanical engineering, to oceanography, mathematics, history and meteorology. Students will also participate in seamanship and navigation classes and will take a cruise aboard a Navy Yard Patrol

(YP) Craft to apply what they will learn in class. Naval Academy Midshipmen lead Summer Seminar with oversight by active-duty Navy and Marine Corps officers.

Founded in 1845, the US. Naval Academy is a prestigious four-year college that prepares midshipmen morally, mentally and physically to be professional officers in the naval service. More than 4,400 men and women, representing every state and several foreign countries make up the student body, known as the Brigade of Midshipmen. Midshipmen learn from military and civilian instructors and participate in intercollegiate varsity sports and extracurricular activities. All Midshipmen are on full scholarship and have a choice of 23 different majors. Additionally they study small arms, drill, seamanship and navigation, tactics, naval engineering and weapons, leadership, ethics and military law as part of their education.

Upon graduation, midshipmen earn a Bachelor of Science degree and go on to serve at least five years of exciting and rewarding service as commissioned officers in the U.S. Navy or U.S. Marine Corps.

For more information about the Naval Academy, please visit: www.usna.edu or the USNA Admissions Facebook page.

Phillip Schroeder is also an accomplished trumpeter, who performed with the Region II Wind Ensemble, receiving second place overall in the auditions and also he was a member of the All-State Orchestra.

Rahway High School, edline.net/pages/Rahway_High_School, a culturally diverse, comprehensive high school where excellence is expected, achieved, and celebrated in the classroom, on the field, and in the arts, celebrates the opportunity that our student will have to experience the education available at the Naval Academy.

OREO MOON PHASES

Third grade students in Mrs. Gaglio's class at Franklin School in Rahway have been learning about the phases of the moon. Over the course of the month, students observed the moon's full range of appearance and its pattern of movement in the sky. They learned that the phases of the moon are a result not of a change in the actual shape of the moon, but of the relative positions of the sun, moon and Earth. Students were given the opportunity to demonstrate what they learned by recreating the 8 moon phases using the frosting of the Oreo cookies. They scraped away portions of the creme filling to represent each moon phase. What a fun and yummy way to wrap up our study about phases of the moon.

COLLECTING OLD SNEAKERS FOR A CAUSE

Blue and Gold Club members at Franklin School in Rahway sponsored a sneaker drive. The students collected over 100 pairs of used sneakers from students, faculty and staff members and donated them to the Nike-Reuse-A-Shoe Program. This program takes worn out athletic shoes and grinds them down to create a new material call Nike grind, which is used to make high quality sports surfaces including courts, turf fields, tracks and more. Since 1990, this program has transformed 28 million pairs of shoes and 36,000 tons of scrap material into Nike Grind for use in more than 450,000 locations around the world. Franklin School was enthusiastic about participating in this recycling initiative and helping the environment.

A GROUP GROWING

Submitted by Colin Gittens, President of the Friends of the Rahway Public Library.

Colin Gittens

As I've noted in recent columns, spring 2014 has been an especially busy time for the Friends of the Rahway Public Library. As I write, planning continues and excitement grows for the Amazing Rahway Race on May 3; we recently wrapped up our annual book sale in mid-April, and the 10th Anniversary Celebration back on March 22 already seems a distant memory. But I want to take a moment to revisit that event and point out its significance to our group.

If you've read previous columns here, you may recall that the Friends is an ancillary support group to the library itself—our volunteer and fundraising efforts supply doers and dollars to help run events, purchase needed supplies or circulating materials, and raise community consciousness about the library.

With the Anniversary Celebration, the relationship between the Friends and the library developed further, deepening into a collaborative effort that we look to as a pattern for the future. The idea for the celebration originated with the library and the library's board of trustees, and the Friends were enlisted not to simply write checks or provide bodies, but to play a key role in planning and managing the event. Because of the event's complexity, we had to delegate many tasks among the group, and I was happy to see everyone willingly take on a role. Many hands make light work, indeed!

After this spring, I confess I am looking forward to things slowing down—at least for a little while—but I am also excited by things bubbling just below the surface both with the Friends and at the library.

First, plans are afoot to secure extra funding for the library via grants, in addition to "more traditional" efforts. For example, the Friends run fundraising events that are both fun and successful financially, but these events require a great deal of time and, sometimes, physical labor. Our annual book sale, to give one example, requires lifting and sorting of large numbers of books beginning in December for a sale that takes place in April! The Anniversary Celebration had us meeting several times in a week in the weeks leading up to March 22. We are an energetic and committed group, but it is in everyone's interest to investigate if dollars are available from foundations, arts groups, charities, etc. These extra dollars would translate into more programs, more education, and more focus on the library as community hub.

Second, as our group grows in experience and connections, I see us working to create programs and events as well as serving to underwrite them. Ideas have been thrown about in recent meetings, and we're working through them to try and figure out what's feasible.

Which brings me to my last point...what's feasible depends on both time and human resources. There are many things we'd like to do, but not all are possible when there are only 12 months in a year. And of course, we'll always need the people power to bring these things about. I may have scared some of you off with my earlier descriptions of physical labor, but we are always appreciative of individuals willing to join us, sharing time and talent in our—no, make that the library's—cause.

TOMATOES
New Jersey's Favorite

LAST FROST DATE: May 12*

Now that Spring has finally arrived gardeners are itching to get busy planting. For many of us in New Jersey that means TOMATOES. The tomato is native to Central and South America. While its culture is ancient it has only reached its present prominence since the mid- 1800s.

Unfortunately tomatoes can host many diseases that can devastate your harvest just when you are looking forward to it. There are a few things you can do at planting time to help limit the chances that will happen to you.

Rotate your crops. Plant your tomatoes in a different spot than you planted them last year. This practice prevents diseases that can go into the soil, which can contaminate it for years into the future. If last year you had a tomato problem don't replant in the same area. Disease resistant varieties are available. These are marked on the label and your local greenhouse personnel will be able to help you locate them.

Plant several different varieties. Not only will this help prevent disease from infecting all of your plants, it will also give you more flavor and most likely a longer and more bountiful harvest.

Proper and consistent watering will greatly improve your harvest. Tomatoes require less water than you might think. Over-watered tomatoes can lack flavor and meatiness. Although we cannot control rainfall, we should take it into consideration when hand watering. A rain meter, either bought or home-made, can be very helpful. It can be as simple as dipping a ruler into a bucket.

Pruning tomatoes and removing suckers will focus plant growth on vegetables rather than unproductive stems and leaves.

Staking up your plants makes it easier to

*Rahway resident gardener "Extraordinaire"

detect problems, harvest your crop and will keep fruit from touching the ground where it can rot. Staking also improves air circulation.

Mulching with black plastic or chopped leaves will control weeds and maintain moisture. This will help keep the soil cool during the heat of summer. Although we know tomatoes like it hot, they stop producing fruit when temperatures reach over 90 degrees. That will greatly diminish your late harvest.

Container gardening is a good choice if you have had disease problems in the past. A simple five gallon bucket with holes drilled in the bottom can be a good choice for this. This system works best with medium size tomatoes.

For more information on growing tomatoes contact our local Rutgers Cooperative Extension Service Garden Helpline of Union County. Phone number 908-654-9852.

Happy Gardening, James

1ST GRADE WRITER'S WORKSHOP

Students from Mrs. Michelle Tavares's first grade class at Franklin Elementary School in Rahway recently took part in a small writing celebration to commemorate the completion of the third unit in their Writer's Workshop Series. Students took turns sharing from mentor texts that helped to shape their writing throughout the unit. Pictured here is Austin Tilton, as he reads an excerpt to his classmates from one of his favorite books, The Cat In The Hat, by Dr. Seuss.

STUDENTS TAKE PART IN VIRTUAL DEBATE

Students from both Madison and Franklin Elementary Schools in Rahway took part in their first ever live, interactive web debate held in April. The event marked the completion of the third unit in their Writer's Workshop series. Using Internet technology, each class had the unique opportunity to see and hear students from a different school share their persuasive essays without ever leaving their classroom! The essays expressed their opinion as to whether or not chocolate milk should be served in Rahway's school cafeterias.

CLEVELAND SCHOOL PRINCIPALS CLUB

On April 23, 2014 Cleveland School celebrated their 3rd marking Period Principals club. The Principal's Club award can be given to a student no more than once a year. Each marking period, individual teachers can nominate a student in Kindergarten through 6th grade for the award in one of the following areas: Academic Achievement / Enhancement, Classroom Assistance, Behavioral Improvement, Act of Kindness, Bullying Prevention.

(above) Vice Principal, Mrs. Hall, Matthew Perez from Mrs. McMullen's second grade class, and Principal, Mr. Giambrone. Matthew was nominated for academic achievement.
