LOCAL BUSINESSES, GOVERNMENT, AND COMMUNITY COME TOGETHER TO CELEBRATE 3RD ANNUAL RAHWAY DAY

On Saturday May 3rd, the Rahway Chamber of Commerce hosted its 3rd Annual "Rahway Day" celebration, themed "Think Rahway First". The event's mission is to encourage residents to shop locally. It ran from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the Rahway Public Library. The popular "Amazing Rahway Race" downtown scavenger hunt sponsored by The Rahway Friends of the Library was also a part of the day.

"Rahway Day has become a staple of this community and the residents have come to love it and look forward to it! Every year attendance has grown and had amazing weather and an excellent turn out this year," stated Carmen McClendon, Chair of the Rahway Day Planning Committee. "We would especially like to thank the all sponsors, local businesses, organizations, City of Rahway, and members of the planning committee for their support and helping to make this event a success."

All the Rahway Day favorite activities such as the Rahway High School Robot, moon bounces, face painting, raffle prizes, and food vendors were back to delight attendees of all ages. In addition our local businesses, community organizations, and government entities were on hand to display their products and services. Entertainment included Grammy nominated Junior Mack, Jazz Duo Karickter, Rahway Singer/Songwriter Matt Marlinski, Aussie Rocker Brian McVernon, Contento Dance, Rahway High School, Rahway Dance Theater, Impact 21/DASH, and Zumba and Hip Hop demos by the YMCA.

RAHWAY'S MAGNIFICENT GORDON'S OPERA HOUSE

Submitted by Al Shipley, City historian and Rahway Library Research Consultant

If one was around one hundred and forty years ago, they might have been in attendance at the opening of The Gordon Opera House, one of the grandest of the theater palaces in the area. The stately Greek revival structure was built by George P. Gordon, a wealthy inventor (he developed the basic design of the most common printing press ever, the Gordon Letterpress) and local businessman, who wanted the theater to stand as a "compliment to Rahway." Gordon, who spent $100,000 to have it built, was not overly concerned with making a profit, but was more interested in bringing culture to the city where he had made his fortune.

The building was located on the east side of Irving Street between Elm Avenue and Elizabeth Avenue and occupied nearly the entire block. When erected, it was one of the largest opera houses in the country.

The interior of the theater was the last word in elegance. The entrance halls opened on either sides of the stage, and the patron, upon entering the theater, would find himself facing the plush seats of the auditorium. The seats started from ground level in the front and gradually rose. The interior was complete with a balcony at the rear and on the sides. The scenery and appointments were continually changed in an effort to keep the theater attractive enough to bring the better stage plays of the day to Rahway.

The feature performance on opening night

Monday, December 28, 1874, was Mr. John Thompson, billed as the most versatile artist living, performing on twenty-one different musical instruments. He would also star in the production of "On Hand (or True to the Last)" supported by a full dramatic company. Reserved seats for the show cost 75¢ and 50¢. General admission was 25¢.

The opera house was not only a venue for professional dramatic and musical companies, but was also made available for use by community groups. Debates were held in the theater, as were events to benefit local clubs, and programs showcasing local talent. Commencement exercises for Rahway High School graduating seniors were also held on Gordon's stage.

Gordon's Opera House flourished until April 28, 1885, when tragedy struck. Just when the new Broadway show "Storm Beaten" was about to open, a fire broke out in the paint room of John L. Freeman's carriage factory (corner of Irving and Elizabeth). The fire was first spotted around midnight by two young men on Cherry Street who were on their way home from a wedding party. Firemen were immediately alerted and had the blaze under control until a water main burst, rendering the hoses useless. The desperate efforts of the fire fighters to repair the water supply were ultimately deemed hopeless, however, when a strong northwest wind blew the fire that was ripping through the factory onto the adjacent opera house. When the fire reached the interior of the theater, it spread rapidly and the building became a blazing mass. It was reported the flames and smoke could be seen as far off as Elizabeth.

By the time the inferno was finally extinguished, the opera house, Freeman's Factory and many of the smaller buildings on the block were completely destroyed. George Gordon's compliment to Rahway was gone, without a trace of its ever having been there.

MULTI-ETHNIC CULTURE CLUB AT RAHWAY HIGH SCHOOL RAISES $400 FROM INTERNATIONAL DINNER FOR SCHOOL IN CHAD

Students from Rahway High School's Multi Ethnic Cultural Club (MECC) transformed the Rahway High School Cafeteria into an evening of foods from around the world. The purpose of the event was to help raise funds for Rahway High School's sister school, Sultan Tadjadine located in Chad, Africa and empowered by Rahway High School. From the admission fees of $5 per person and other donations, students raised $400 to be send to this school for refugees from Darfur, Sudan. The school is one of six located in a refugee camp in Djabai, Chad. Djabai is a good location for the camp because it has good soil where crops can be raised to help feed the 17,000 refugees, 60% of which are children. The National Basketball Association's Darfur Dream Team helps support this camp and has created the Sister Schools program which links American schools with schools in the camps. In 2010 – 2011 alone, over $300,000 has been donated for educational purposes, teachers, school uniforms, textbooks, and security fences to keep out animals, Read more about the schools and the Darfur Dream Team at <http://darfurdreamteam.org/content/djabai-2010-2011-progress-report>.

BUTTERFLY BUSH

LAST FROST DATE: May 12*

As the name implies, the butterfly bush 'Buddleia' is a shrub that attracts butterflies. They seem to find it impossible to pass by; often hosting more than one butterfly at a time. Don't be surprised to also see a hummingbird visit the shrub, especially later in the season.

Noted for its long spires of flowers, a collection of tiny clusters, butterfly bushes bloom from midsummer until the frost. Available in a range of colors from white to pink, purple, blues and even yellow. This hardy shrub dies back in winter and then re-sprouts from new growth next spring, flowering from 'new wood'. To keep it neat and healthy give buddleia a 'heavy' pruning every spring. In late March or April prune it back to two or three feet from the ground. Amazingly it will still increase its height and width every year. By forcing new growth from the bottom you encourage your shrub to sprout more new stems and many more flowers.

A native to temperate regions of Asia, South Africa and South America, this fast growing shrub can reach a height of over 6 ft and easily spread as wide in just a few years. Although well worth the space, keep size in consideration when selecting a planting site. This also means you can save money by planting a young plant and it will quickly reach its desired height. As if that isn't enough, Buddleia are both drought and deer resistant. That is a plus for any plant.

Rahway resident gardener "Extraordinaire" James Keane, has been researching and answering garden questions since 1995.

If your goal is to attract butterflies and humming birds there are many other plants that will help. Lantana and Salvia (red is the best) are just a few. Your local garden center may have a section of plants that attract them. One step you can take to make your garden a 'butterfly habitat' is to plant parsley, dill and milkweed. Butterflies lay their eggs on these plants. The caterpillars hatch, grow, turn into chrysalis, commonly called a cocoon and soon emerges as a new young butterfly.

If you are lucky enough to have hummingbirds in your area, a feeder is a terrific investment.

AMAZING RAHWAY RACE RESULTS IN FUN!

Submitted by Colin Gittens, President of the Friends of the Rahway Public Library.

Colin Gittens

A field of spirited contestants took part in the fourth annual Amazing Rahway Race on May 3rd, a scavenger hunt fundraiser organized by the Friends of the Rahway Public Library. The team "The Wolfgang" was the top overall finisher in the general category, while "Rahway's Own" was the top finisher in the business division.

The Amazing Rahway Race has become part of the tradition of Rahway Day, sending teams throughout downtown Rahway on a mission to find and solve clues, which then lead the teams to the next location and challenge. Teams race against each other and the clock, and must satisfy designated challenges (physical or mental and sometimes, fiendish) that can add minutes to overall completion time.

If the comments of participants were any indication, the challenges were a bit more difficult than in previous years. For example, a number of participants struggled with a two-part clue. First, they had to identify the ship that was sunk, causing the United States to enter World War I (the Lusitania). The origin of that word then led them to the next location: Little Portugal Restaurant. (During the Roman Empire, Lusitania was the land known as the Iberian peninsula or modern-day Portugal, so contestants were to go to Little Portugal restaurant.)

Race director Eric Miles noted that "Every year we try to change things up and make the race challenging. If some clues were on the difficult side, we'll do whatever we can to keep the race fun and make any needed adjustments so that next year's race is just right."

Some of the physical challenges were also tough—but fun. Contestants were sent into Sovereign Martial Arts to take a few kicks in order to receive their next clue. Egg roulette—wherein contestants are faced with a table of eggs, some hardboiled, some not, and they must choose an egg and crack it against their forehead—was another hurdle to be passed. Teams had a fun (and sometimes messy) time with this challenge!

We were encouraged by the number of teams repeating their participation, including some that have now competed for four years running.

The plaque for the business team will be leaving its home at Classic Comics (last year's winner) to go on display at the Rahway Arts District for the next year. Business teams compete each year for this plaque, and can display it in the manner of the hockey's Stanley Cup.

If you considered taking part but were unable to this year, don't worry—the Friends are already planning the 2015 edition! Keep an eye for notices about the race next April.

The Friends of the Rahway Public Library is a 501(c)(3) organization that supports the library through volunteerism and fundraising.

FAMILY LITERACY AND HEALTHY U NIGHT

Grover Cleveland School in Rahway, NJ hosted their first family literacy and healthy U night on May 1, 2014. Over 100 families came out to learn more about writing and healthy living. This year Grover Cleveland was awarded two grants. The Rahway Branch of the YMCA awarded our school the Healthy U Catch program grant. The grant is designed to combat childhood obesity by introducing healthy eating and living habits in school children. Since September, our teachers have been promoting health and physical education with their students along with our friends from the Rahway Branch of the YMCA. We would like to recognize and thank Mike Johnson, and Lindsay Sudia for all their support this year.

Grover Cleveland School was also awarded a literacy grant from the Department of Education. Throughout the year, teachers have been collaborating with representatives from the state to enhance our reading and writing curriculum. On the evening of May 1, 2014, parents were given an opportunity to write with their children and learn more about the grant. We would like to thank Dianne Malley, Myriam Alizo, and Perkie Cannon, from the Office of Special Education Programs New Jersey Department of Education.

CHESSMATES RELOCATES TO CHERRY STREET

Arthur Macaspac opened Chessmates in downtown Rahway, NJ on Irving Street in June of 2010. He moved the club to 75 Cherry Street in June of 2014.

Chessmates' mission is to provide a welcome, friendly and relaxing environment for players of all levels and ages in NJ as well as the surrounding states. They offer professional chess instruction for aspiring students of the game and help develop strong players. Finally, the club would like to provide high-quality competition for their members and non-members year round.

Part club and part school, Chessmates features instruction by International Grandmaster Leonid Yudasin, a two time candidate for world champion who is ranked as one the top five players in the world.

Macaspac is a formidable player in his own rite. A national master since 1998, Macaspac won the US Army Championship three times and was a team Captain for the US Military

Team in NATO Competition.

In Iraq, Macaspac played the role of "chess ambassador" at Camp Bucca. Despite working 10-hour days he found time to start a chess club. Participants came from different services - Marines, Air Force, Navy, Army and even Iraqi interpreters.

Chessmates is looking for players who are just learning to play chess or are looking to advance their skill level. Regular weekly tournaments are held along with lessons for all strengths. Chessmates also runs summer chess camps.

Hours of Operation are

Wednesday 6:45 p.m. - 10:30 p.m.

BLUE AND GOLD CLUB AT FRANKLIN ELEMENTARY SCHOOL LEARN TO GIVE BACK TO THE COMMUNITY

BLUE AND GOLD CLUB WORKS WITH FOOD FOR FRIENDS

The Blue and Gold Club at Franklin Elementary School in Rahway is a community service club, coordinated by the school's nurse, Mrs. Barbara Maher. Students involved in this club volunteer their time to help collect and organize for the Club's various projects, while consequently, strengthening their sense of civic engagement and nationalism, as well as meeting educational, developmental and social goals.

This past month the club worked with the Food for Friends, a local food pantry that helps ensure that all families in Rahway have enough to eat. Students collected cans of vegetables to be donated to the pantry.

RAHWAY FOOD FOR FRIENDS IS CELEBRATING 1ST ANNUAL VOLUNTEER APPRECIATION DAY!

For 20 years we have had many hard working and dedicated volunteers keep our organization running. We pay homage to our founders, Dick Talbot and Rev. Bill Reeves who paved the way for this organization to "Feed the Whole Person" by giving food to the homeless, hungry and needy.

On June 28, 2014 at the Hart Street Park, Rahway, NJ 07065, we would like to honor our volunteers past and present, for all the laboring in love they have extended to the homeless, needy and hungry but most of all to Rahway Food For Friends. Without our volunteers, we don't know where we would be.

We are asking for the help of our community to assist us in the areas of set up, serving, grilling, game monitoring, prize monitoring and clean up. Our volunteer staff is a small group of dedicated people who have now aged with the program, they extend love and charity to others daily. We would like to extend charity, love and gratitude to them as well.

Again, we are limited in our staff and ask that you please respond and support us in any way!
