Last time the teams battled, the Nightmares took the win in a thriller of a game that left fans on the edge of their seats. YMCA AGAIN HOSTED THE GREAT ZUCCHINI RACE

YMCA Rahway Branch again hosted the Great Zucchini Race under the direction of its creator Bob Markey. Jim Smythe of the Rahway YMCA was again Racemaster. 24 Groups of three campers assembled their Zucchini Racers in the morning. Each group was comprised of different ages from 5 to 15 years of age. Bruce Crawford, Director of Rutgers Gardens officiated. Also in attendance were Rahway Branch Director Gerry Gessie and President of the Garden Club of NJ Barbara Mullin as well as Trustees Jeannie Geremia and Sue O'Donnell also from the Garden club of NJ.

The year children grew over thirty different crops in their Square Foot Gardens located behind the Rahway YMCA branch. Vegetables and herbs and edible flowers flourished. The Summer Camper Sq. Ft. Gardening program was started at the local YMCA branch by Master Gardener Bob Markey in 2008.

7 THINGS YOU MUST KNOW BEFORE PUTTING YOUR HOME UP FOR SALE

Rahway NJ - A new report has just been released which reveals 7 costly mistakes that most homeowners make when selling their home, and a 9 Step System that can help you sell your home fast and for the most amount of money.

This industry report shows clearly how the traditional ways of selling homes have become increasingly less and less effective in today's market.

The fact of the matter is that fully three quarters of homesellers don't get what they want for their homes and become disillusioned and - worse - financially disadvantaged when they put their homes on the market.

As this report uncovers, most homesellers make 7 deadly mistakes that cost them literally thousands of dollars. The good news is that each and every one of these mistakes is entirely preventable. In answer to this issue, industry insiders have prepared a free special report entitled "The 9 Step System to Get Your Home Sold Fast and For Top Dollar".

To order a FREE Special Report, visit www.njhomesellermistakes.com or to hear a brief recorded message about how to order your FREE copy of this report call toll-free 1-888-243-5861 and enter 1000. You can call any time, 24 hours a day, 7 days a week.

RAHWAY POLICE CAPTAIN ARTIE O'LEARY AND RAHWAY FIREFIGHTER HARRY F. BLUMER SR. FRIENDSHIP SCHOLARSHIPS AWARDED

The Rahway Police Department and Rahway Fire Department are proud to announce the recipients of this year's Captain Artie O'Leary & Firefighter Harry F. Blumer Sr. Friendship Scholarship Award. Congratulations to Kevin Connolly and Andrew Karlbon, who were awarded the Captain Artie O'Leary Scholarship, and Peter Fiore, who received the Firefighter Harry F. Blumer Sr. Award.

This annual scholarship is awarded to deserving recipients in honor of the late William Arthur O'Leary, a former Rahway Police Department Captain who passed away in 1993, and Rahway Firefighter Harry F. Blumer, who passed away in 2011. The scholarships are awarded to the children of active duty Rahway Police and Fire Department Officers. The recipients are selected based upon academic excellence, demonstrated commitment and service to their communities, acceptance to an accredited college or university, and successful completion of the application essay. The scholarship is generously funded by Bernard Burkhoff, a Rahway businessman, who was also a personal friend of Captain Artie O'Leary and Firefighter Harry Blumer Sr. The Rahway Police Department and Rahway Fire Department would like to thank Mr. Burkhoff for his continued generosity and dedication.

JOHN FRAZEE: A YOUNG BOY CARVES A LIFE

Submitted by Al Shipley, City Historian and Rahway Library Research Consultant

John Frazee was an American sculptor and architect (1790-1852) who brought pride to Rahway by becoming one of the first and finest sculptors in the new nation and the first American to execute a bust in marble. During a period when the creative masters in Europe scoffed at the works of American writers and artists, Frazee's work marked the coming of age in sculpture for the United States.

The last of ten children born into the indigent Frazee clan, young John was sent to live with his maternal grandparents on their twenty acre farm in Rahway when he was five. Although his guardians were a good-natured pair and gave him the basis of his moral and religious education, he was yet exposed to the hardships and drudgery associated with the daily toil of farm work. The child's only break would come when he was able to steal away to some solitary spot where he would whittle the forms of familiar objects such as boats, windmills, and weathercocks from scraps of boards and shingles. Over the years his carving skills would become finer and finer, and by the time he reached his mid-teens his artistic abilities were evident.

At age sixteen, he was apprenticed to a bricklayer named William Lawrence, who in the summer of 1808, was contracted to build a stone bridge over the Rahway River. When the work was completed, Mr. Lawrence, in a burst of pride, wished to have a stone tablet inscribed

Self bust of
John Frazee.
The Smithsonian
Institute has a collection of many of the works of Frazee. One can also find a number of tombstones that were cut by the artist in the historic

that would record his name and the date of completion to commemorate his achievement. For such an important marker, Lawrence felt he would have to employ a qualified stonecutter and planned to send word to Elizabeth for a reputable carver. Frazee, in what must have been a bold move by an apprentice, asked if he could try his hand at it. Perhaps because of the young lad's self-assuredness, the employer consented. The simple words, "Built - 1808 by Wm. Lawrence," signaled the beginning of Frazee's bright future.

With continuing aid from Mr. Lawrence and encouragement from a fellow stonecutter named Ward Baldwin, Frazee's skill continued to develop and expand. To earn extra income, he hired himself out as a tombstone carver. His ability to carve vines of flowers and ivy on stone slabs won him immediate admiration. It was said that his work could not be matched for neatness and exquisite beauty. Frazee soon realized that Rahway could not furnish him adequate patronage, so in 1813 he moved to New Brunswick and was later employed in New York City and Washington D.C.

Frazee's first attempt at sculpting the human figure was a piece titled "Grief Leaning on an Urn" and was done in 1815 after the death of his first-born son. His first marble bust, completed in 1825, was of the prominent New York lawyer, John Wells. A year before this, Frazee had been admitted into the New York Academy of Fine Arts, thus recognizing him as a practicing artist.

By 1830, Frazee had made his way to Washington where Congress commissioned him to do the bust of Chief Justice John Jay (Frazee was the first native-born sculptor to be granted a Federal commission), thereby securing Frazee's fame as America's leading portraitist. During his lifetime he would complete the busts of Andrew Jackson, General Lafayette, John Marshall, Daniel Webster, Thomas Paine, and many other notable statesmen. As an architect, he designed the New York Customs House and was a finalist in the competition for an architect to design the Washington Monument. In the summer of 1834, Frazee's reputation reached its highest point. "The New York Evening Post" declared that his busts of Nathaniel Bowditch and Nathaniel Prime, both included in the National Academy of Design's annual exhibition "are equal to any we have ever seen - beautiful in design and execution. They are classic portraits, and as such would do honor to any sculptor."

John Frazee died in 1852 while putting the finishing touches on the bust of President Jackson. Frazee was an extremely accomplished artist when one considers that, although he had no formal training as could be found in the finest schools in Europe, his portraits reveal a remarkable combination of intense and detailed realism and his unique style provides a link between classical and modern sculpture. At the presentation of Frazee's bust of John Jay, "The Washington Globe" praised the artist and perhaps gives an accurate summation of Frazee's contributions to American sculpture when they wrote, "We have seen nothing of his kind in this country, either from the chisel of a native or foreign artist, that is superior in finished performance."

CHASE EVERYONES PUP

It was 630 am labor Day Friday 2006 and while going garage sailing we came across a white and tan pup about 6 months old out loose on a Myrtle beach back road.. We stopped the car and found him to be skin and bones but with a collar so we left him and drove off. He chased us for the next 1/8th mile and well the rest is history. That is how Chase got his name and his home with us. He is a tree walker coon hunting hound. We took him to the vets and we found he was scared of fire crackers and thunder so that is why he was useless for hunting & probably why they abandoned him. He is still scared of thunder but as is his natural instinct every nite he goes on raccoon patrol and protects his friends our kol in our kol pond

It took very little time for Chase to learn to ring bells hanging on our doors to alert us to let him out, or to open the door to come back in. or that 730 at night is dingo treat time. He is papas little boy (all 67 pounds of him) He runs like a speed demon, and begs on two legs. He loves to play with all his plush toys. He loves garage sales as he always finds a plush toy that he picks out and takes and loves to snuggle with them and us.. But Chase is not just our sweet boy, he is everyone's pup. In our neighborhood whenever he takes me for a walk lol, everyone comes to greet Chase or as some call him Chasie. During these walks He can be found with little munchkins walking along side with their hands on his back on their way to school. On the corner of Pierpont and Lake he has a full scale discussion with his favorite crossing guard every morning. He will grumble and yawn telling her his troubles as parents and kids standby and chuckle. People slow their cars to say hi to Chase. He brings gentle love and kindness to everyone he meets. He has and continues to touch and enrich not just our lives but everyone in the neighborhood. Chase is the pup of the year this year and every year, Chase is a pup for everyone and we all love him very much. The way it happened Chase found us and we and the neighborhood thank God for him choosing us and.

RAHWAY POLICE EQUIPS OFFICERS WITH NARCAN

The Rahway Police Department has trained and equipped their officers with the overdose antidote, Narcan, the nasal spray form of the opiate blocker Naloxone. This powerful medication is capable of reversing the often fatal effects of heroin / opiate overdoses.

Narcan is a drug traditionally administered by EMTs, but has recently made its way into the hands of police officers as part of efforts to reverse the nationwide overdose epidemic. Drug overdose recently surpassed auto fatalities as the leading cause of accidental death in the United States.

The most lethal of all drugs, opiates, such as heroin or most prescription painkillers, lull the user into a sleepy euphoria that can lead to respiratory failure. "As police officers are often the first to arrive on the scene of an overdose, it just makes sense to give them the tools to help combat the problem", stated Police Chief John Rodger. "The goal is to help victims before they stop breathing. It's not a cure-all, but it's a step in the right direction."

THE PROGRESSIVE DINNER - A NEW FALL TRADITION!

Submitted by Colin Gittens, President of the Friends of the Rahway Public Library.

Colin Gittens

Here we are in September, when summer's slower pace speeds up into fall. Vacations end, children go back to school, and the sports scene heats up. Fall is also when we look forward to cooler temperatures, brightly colored leaves, and the third annual Progressive Dinner, a popular and successful fundraiser sponsored by the Friends of the Rahway Public Library.

For those unfamiliar with the concept, a progressive dinner allows diners to sample multiple restaurants for the various courses of a typical meal during a single evening. Although some dinners can feature 4 or more courses (and restaurants), our dinner has traditionally offered 3—appetizers, main course, and dessert.

In an effort to take advantage of October's usual milder weather, this year the dinner will be held a little earlier than in years past. So please mark your calendars for Wednesday, October 8th. The event begins at 7 pm, and it should be pleasant to walk around town with friends old and new, get some exercise between courses, and see what has been happening in downtown.

The participating restaurant owners are excited about hosting the dinner. This year we will be visiting some old favorites and a new location as well. Hungry participants will begin at Cubanu for appetizers with a Latin flair. From there, participants will enjoy the main course at The Railhouse, a very popular stop during last year's dinner, where the options were many and the portions plentiful. After this, it is only right to take a short walk and make some room for dessert.

The ticket price includes the food only; drinks may be purchased at each spot along the way. Parking is available on street near the restaurants or in the downtown parking deck.

Tickets will be $45 per person and can be purchased at the library's reference desk or at Witty's Liquors on St Georges Ave, or by calling 732-822-2050. To help the restaurants plan for the evening and to ensure the highest quality meal, seating will be limited. If interested, please be sure to secure your tickets early. Tickets may be purchased in advance until Friday, October 3. If any tickets remain, they can be purchased at the door of Cubanu on the night of the event. Checks should be payable to "The Friends of the Rahway Public Library."

We hope to see you as we stroll and eat in October. Bon appétit!

PHILLIPS 66 AND NEED HOST AN ENERGY EDUCATION WORKSHOP

Phillips 66 [NYSE: PSX] and the National Energy Education Development (NEED) Project will host an energy education workshop at the Bayway Refinery, in Linden, New Jersey, on October 8, 2014. Up to 40 New Jersey area primary and secondary level teachers are expected to attend.

At the workshop, a NEED energy education trainer will explain the science of energy using experiments and research and analysis activities that make learning about energy fun and relevant for K-12 students. The curriculum emphasizes all sources of energy and explains the importance of using energy wisely. Each educator receives a class-set of NEED-developed, state-correlated curriculum that expands and increases students' energy knowledge. Participants also receive a Science of Energy kit with hands-on experiments that explore the forms of energy and energy transformations.

"Phillips 66's generous investment in energy education will help address educators' growing demands for quality energy curriculum and training for tomorrow's workforce," said Mary Spruill, executive director of the NEED Project. "We consider an energy-literate public the pathway to overcoming the energy challenges of the future."

Phillips 66's sponsorship of the NEED Project aims to improve energy knowledge in America's communities and schools. This upcoming workshop supports New Jersey area teachers with the training and curriculum materials needed to lead their students in innovative thinking and creative dialogue about energy.

Since 2008, Phillips 66 and NEED have educated more than 5,000 educators through this sponsorship. This year, Phillips 66 will host 21 workshops across 12 states for more than 800 teachers.

RAHWAY POLICE ANNOUNCE YEAR-ROUND MEDICINE DROP-OFF SITE

The Rahway Police Department is implementing a free medicine-collection program for Rahway residents to safely dispose of unwanted, expired or unused medicines.

The collection site box provided by the New Jersey Division of Consumer Affairs allows the drop off of prescription and over-the-counter drugs, as well as pet medicines.

Medicines from households are accepted 24 hours per day, 365 days a year at the Rahway Police Department lobby located at 1 City Hall Plaza Rahway, NJ 07065.

“The drop-off program is a free, anonymous, no-questions-asked initiative that prevents drug abuse and theft by ridding our homes of potentially dangerous expired, unused and unwanted prescription drugs and medicines.” said Rahway Police Chief John M. Rodger.

“Unused medicine left in the home poses health and safety threats, and improperly disposed of medicines can end up in our water system and streams, and harm wildlife”, said Rahway Mayor Samson Steinman. “This year-round collection program helps prevent crime and protects the environment”, the Mayor added.

“Most teens who abuse prescription drugs get them from family and friends, straight from their home medicine cabinet.” according to Rahway

Municipal Alliance Coordinator President Andrea Zapcic. “Painkillers, depressants, stimulants, and over-the-counter cough medicines are the medicines most often abused. These are the most important drugs to remove from your home if they are unwanted, expired or unused.” Ms. Zapcic added.

According to a 2011 National survey on drug use and health, more than seven million Americans currently abuse prescription drugs. Nationally, every day approximately 2,500 teens use prescription drugs to get high for the first time, according to the Partnership for a Drug Free America.

Please keep medicines in their original container when utilizing the drop-box. If possible, please cross out any personal information on the prescription bottle, and place the bottle in a clear plastic baggie. Please note that the drop-off site is for individuals only. No medicines will be accepted from businesses, healthcare facilities, pharmacies, medical offices, or veterinary clinics. The drop box cannot accept syringes.

If you need additional information, please visit the Project Medicine Drop website at www.nj.gov/oag/ca/meddrop. The website is loaded with information on the best ways to dispose of unused medications, and ideas on how to safely store medications within the
