MUSICAL PROVIDED OVER 70 WITH OPPORTUNITY TO SHINE

Submitted Denis J. Kelly

Between the cast, crew, support personnel, art design of programs and house volunteers, scores of people pitched in to stage the annual production of the spring musical, "Little Shop of Horrors," Wednesday, March 18, to Sunday, March 22, at Watchung Hills Regional High School.

"It happens every year," said Arts and World Languages Supervisor Brad Commerford, "about 75 people are involved in staging the musical. It's a huge undertaking. Script and Cue members, and everyone associated with the production, had an opportunity to participate. They did an excellent job."

The Watchung Hills production was directed by Douglas Eaton, who also provided set design. Angela Dilorio Bird was musical director and orchestra pit director. She was also one of two keyboardists in the orchestra.

Lead actors in the cast were Michael Weinfeldt as Seymour and Hannah Melillo as Audrey. Silas Baker was Mushnik, Ryan Prestera was Orin. Peri Martins and Julia Sluyter were Ronnette 1 and Ronette 2, Veronica Mu and Julia Golkin were Chiffon 1 and Chiffon 2, and Jackie Romankow and Allison Horvath were Crystal 1 and Crystal 2. Alex Wu provided the voice for Audrey II. David Kalwicz, Nikhil Bhat, and Zoe Golkin provided the manipulation for Audrey II.

Members of the Ensemble were: David Kalwicz, Lynsey Stanicki, Nikhil Bhat, Alex Bird, Angela Celeste, Mariella Zijdel, Kira Leinwand, Caitlin Iannella, Tea Kingly, Katrina Howard, Judy Tounsi, Victoria Magali, Adele Rotondo, Gaby DiLone, Charles Buscarino, Angela Munoz, Katherine Peterson, Angela Seda, Emma Leary, Rhiannon Barone, Eric Bautista, and Alex Wu.

Assistant Musical Director was Alyssa Rosenblum, who also played clarinet. The orchestra included: Owen DiDonna, drums; Naomi Smith, electric bass; Davie Willett, guitar; Jillian Carbone, keyboard; Jason O'Brien, percussion; Nick Mossa, clarinet; John Ray and Brianna Rosen, flute; Andrew Morrison and Justin Panzarino, saxophone; Hanna Stanicki and Katelyn Bereheiko, bass clarinet; and Bonnie Burgdorf and Brian Carneiro, trumpet.

The production crew included: Scenic Artist, Kate Griffin; Lighting Design and Technical Director, Chris Valenti; Costume Design, Gail DeCicco; Choreography, Ashlen Udell; Sound Design, Matt Guarino; Special Effects, Rick Clark; Production Assistant, Brooke Kupferman;

Assistant Directors Jacob Lyons, Anirban Chakraborty, and Kathleen Stavole; and Assistant Director/Musical Director Liaison, Amelia Stapperfenne.

Other production staff included: Joe Bouffard and Jenna Leski, assistant stage managers; Christopher Oakes, lighting board operator; Matt Guarino, Michelle Reina, and Mike Maloney, audio engineers; and Kieran Amore, Stephanie Chavanne, Michael Dumapit, Gabrielle Fallon, Stephanie Fallon, Sarah Kowsakowski, Josh Leski, Gabe Peraza, Dominique Rounce, Jennifer Stavole, Nicole Stoicescu, Caitlin Villarreal and Janine Villarreal, running crew.

Rail and Rigging was provided by Jennifer Gilmore, Emily Graf, Dana Nara and Ashley Thach. Construction crew were Matt Guarino, Rick Clark, Nick Dinizio and Brett Siksnius. Scenic Painting crew was Kimberly Griffin and Rebecca Novik. Prop and Furniture Rental was provided by Anything But Costumes. Prop masters were Megan Maloney, Collette Crocco, Mylan Dettling, Megan Petersen and Jordan Scheiner. Costume Rental was by Jaye Barre. Hair and Make-up were by Lina Rivetti and Noelle Puelo. Puppet Master was Jeff Seesselberg. Poster Design was by Kevin Guo and Steve Speeney.

SOMERSET FARMS ADDS FRUIT CREATIONS TO FULL SERVICE FOOD AND PRODUCE MARKET

Somerset Farms in North Plainfield has been a staple in the community for over twenty years. The Maillaro family has owned and operated this business since 1992. Its original produce store and deli later expanded to include a garden center, fresh fish department and many specialty food items. Somerset's motto is "We're not just produce." They pride themselves on always changing and continually adding to their extensive line of products to better meet the needs of their customers. Their newest business enterprise began in February of the new year called Fruitful Creations...by Somerset Farms.

Fruitful Creations are delicious fresh fruit arrangements and chocolate covered strawberries. They offer a full collection of fruit creations made from the fresh fruit delivered daily to their retail store. Each Fruitful Creation can be arranged to suit any occasion. Pick one of their designs or they will customize each arrangement to suit your needs. These unique gifts are a great choice for birthdays, graduations, anniversaries, get well, new baby, deepest sympathy, thank you, holidays including Easter, Mother's Day and more!

Fruitful Creations are available for pick up or delivery. To order please call the Maillaro family: Joanne, James or Lisa at 908-757-7730, or stop in at our store: Somerset Farms, 950 Route 22 East, North Plainfield, NJ 908-757-7730. Store Hours: Mon – Sat 9am – 7pm; Sunday 9am – 5pm.

Submitted by Elaine Chesebro, Watchung Borough Schools

This Sierpinski Pyramid represents a fractal, which is a recurring pattern often found in nature, such as the patterns in trees and their branches, seashells and their spirals, and with brain cells (neurons). Daniel and Helen built 256 single triangular pyramids, then taped them together following the same pattern to form larger triangular pyramids.

LIONS CLUB DONATES TO BOROUGH OF WATCHUNG

Submitted by Linda Monetti, Rec Coordinator

further the goal of Lionism "Help the Lions, Help the Blind". Over the years the motto evolved to "We Serve" as the mission of Lions worldwide expanded to provide recycled eye glasses to third world countries, to provide hearing aids to those in need and most recently embarked on a $100,000,000 project to eradicate measles worldwide, a work currently and successfully in progress. Club members meet at Water and Wine the second and fourth Wednesday of the month. Membership is now open to Watchung residents. If interested please contact Pat Fittipaldi at pfitt2@verizon.net.

For many years the Watchung Lions Club provided the young children of Watchung with an annual Easter Egg Hunt. That practice was postponed several years ago due to construction work in progress at Bayberry School.

As a tribute to deceased members of The Lions Club, who started this annual tradition many years ago, Watchung Borough and the Recreation Commission are pleased to accept the donation of $1000 from the Watchung Lions Club to fund the 2015 Easter Egg Hunt which will be held on March 28th from 11:00 am to 12:30 pm at Mobus Field (rain date March 29th). The event will include light refreshments, games, music, prizes, an Easter Bunny and of course the egg hunt! Decorate your wagons and strollers and wear your Easter bonnets and caps for our contest. For more information on the event please contact Recreation Coordinator Linda Monetti at lmonetti@watchungnj.gov or call (908)756-0080.

GARDEN CLUB OFFERS FREE BEES AND BEEKEEPING PRESENTATION

The Garden Club of Watchung is pleased to invite the public to a free presentation on Beekeeping to be held at St. Mary's Stony Hill Church's Murray Hall, 125 Mountain Blvd., Watchung on Wednesday, May 6 at 1:00 p.m. Pier Guidi, an experienced member of the New Jersey Beekeepers Association, will discuss honeybees and beekeeping in general. His presentation includes showing beehive equipment, beekeeper gear, an observation hive (with live bees going about their business of caring for their young, making honey, etc.).

Mr. Guidi will also discuss the honey bee life cycle, caring for bees, the extraction and bottling of honey as well as bee friendly garden plantings. Beehive products such as honey, beeswax soaps and candles will be on display.

For more information on beekeeping in New Jersey, you may visit Pier's web site: Bamboo Hollow.com and/or the New Jersey Beekeepers Association website: www.njbeekeepers.org

ARMY? NAVY? MARINE? COAST GUARD? AIR FORCE? WE WANT YOU!

The Watchung Historical Committee is planning to enhance the lists of veterans' names on the Watchung War Memorial. To have a veteran's name included on the War Memorial, the man/woman would have to have been a resident of Watchung at the time of his/her induction into military service and have served during an armed conflict/s. If this criteria describes you and you would like to have your name placed on the Watchung War Memorial, please contact Lynn Franklin at 908-755-6276.

HILLS GRADUATE AND TREASURE HUNTER DONATES HISTORICAL ARTIFACTS TO FRAUNCES TAVERN

By Denis J. Kelly

Brad Bocksel, a 2001 graduate of Watchung Hills Regional High School, returned to his alma mater on Monday, March 9, to share his success at finding and donating to museums historical artifacts such as Revolutionary War and Civil War-era coins, musket balls, and belt buckles, among other artifacts.

Bocksel shared his experiences, including his use of a variety of metal detectors, both on land and in the water, with students of English and Social Studies classes. He appeared at the invitation of English teacher Laura Goodson, who had been his instructor when Bocksel was a student at Watchung Hills. Prior to moving with his family to Long Island, Bocksel lived in Warren Township.

"Brad was always passionate about history," Goodson said.

In February, Bocksel donated 20 Revolutionary War-era items he had found to the Fraunces Tavern Museum, at the corner of Pearl Street and Broad Street, near the Staten Island Ferry Terminal in Manhattan. Built in 1719, the Fraunces Tavern Building, a national historic landmark, was the site of several key activities before, during and after the Revolutionary War. Among the noted historical events held in the tavern were peace negotiations with the British to end the Revolutionary War.

After the Revolutionary War was won, it was at Fraunces Tavern that Gen. George Washington bade farewell to his officers on Dec.

4, 1783. The event is depicted in the masterpiece by New York painter Alonzo Chappel (1828-1887), "Washington's Farewell to His Officers." For more about Fraunces Tavern Museum, see frauncestavernmuseum.org. For more about Chappel, see www.alonzochappel.org.

Director Jessica Phillips said that the Fraunces Tavern Museum was thrilled to have received the donated artifacts from Bocksel.

Many of the items Bocksel donated to Fraunces Tavern he had found on his family's farm in Aquebogue, a village in the town of Riverhead, New York, on the north fork of the eastern end of Long Island.

In addition to items from the Revolutionary War era, Bocksel has found items dating back thousands of years, including a stone spearhead that the Southold Indian Museum, further out on the north fork Long Island near Peconic, has estimated to be more than 3,000 years old. Bocksel said he found the spearhead along Sound Beach in Mattituck, also in that area.

On his family's farm, Bocksel has also found a 1700s-era Spanish reale, which was the currency of the Spanish colonies in America. The residence on the Bocksel farm, itself, called the Luther Moore House, dates back to the 1860s. Bocksel's great grandmother on his mother's side had owned the house, so some of the items he has found belonged to his ancestors. His house is registered with the Riverhead Landmarks Preservation Commission. Bocksel moved there with his parents not long after he graduated from Watchung Hills. He is sometimes joined during his treasure hunting by his father, Robert.

Bocksel's mother, Karen, said that her son's interest in this form of treasure hunting started when he was in middle school. Now, it has flourished into a lifetime passion, she said.

More information about Bocksel and his treasure hunting can be found at www.diggerbrad.com.

Bocksel said he, and all treasure hunters, must be careful to not search grounds that are private property, or national historical sites, or public parks. He said he has done some searches outside the United States, although there are some whole countries, including Ireland, Scotland and Greece that frown on artifact searches. He has found artifacts from the Roman Empire in England.

Among the other items Bocksel has found is a gold ring, bearing a diamond and a ruby, from the 1870s. And, he once came to the aid of one young couple, who had lost a wedding ring. With the help of his metal detector, Bocksel found the ring.

On the other hand, in addition to rings, various items made of steel, copper, bronze and nickel, Bocksel said, he has also found many pull top tabs from aluminum cans.

One large source of finds are on beaches after a storm, when items are thrown up on the sand, or left behind after the ride recedes.

Bocksel demonstrated how to operate his metal detector, and showed how sensitive it can be, sending out pings when hovering near to a ring was placed on the tile floor where he spoke to the students. He said that he has a variety of metal detectors, including ones that are made primarily for detecting items on the surface, and others capable of detecting metals below the surface.

ROTARY HONORS WOMEN'S HISTORY MONTH

The Watchung Warren Rotary recently celebrated Women's History Week with a presentation by students from Valley View Middle School and undergraduate students from Kean University at Twin Brooks Country Club in Watchung.

Ten Valley View 5th grade students introduced ten notable women in history while conducting a trivia contest about women's history for the Rotarians. After enjoying a lovely lunch, the program was concluded with the signing and affirmation of Proclamation 4903 by all the women present. Proclamation 4903 was first signed by President Ronald Reagan in 1982 and set the week of March 7 as Women's History Week.

The Watchung Warren Rotary was delighted to have the opportunity to collaborate with youth in the community on this special event. A wonderful time was had by all.

(above) Brad Bocksel, a 2001 graduate of Watchung Hills Regional High School and former resident of Warren Township, returned to his alma mater on Monday, March 9, to share his success at finding and donating to museums historical artifacts such as Revolutionary War and Civil War-era coins, musket balls, and belt buckles, among other artifacts. With Bocksel (third left) are students (l-r): Senior Brooke Bahooshian of Green Brook Township, Senior Greg Lockwood of Millington, Junior Brianna Torrisi of Warren Township, Junior Brianna Walker of Watchung, Senior Liddy Tino of Watchung, and Freshman Alexa Chavez of Watchung.

MS SUFFERER POINTS OUT BENEFITS OF MASSAGE THERAPY

Massage therapy promotes positive short-term and long-term benefits to individuals with multiple sclerosis (MS), according to Deanna Cimino of Watchung, New Jersey, who was diagnosed in 2012 with the chronic disease that attacks the central nervous system.

Since 2013, Cimino has seen the same seasoned therapist at Elements Massage of Warren as an alternative to physical therapy and has experienced dramatic results including relief of pain and muscle spasms related to the disease. Cimino began first having problems with MS in 1998 until it became progressively worse and also suffers from fibromyalgia.

"Massage therapy significantly reduced the pain and anxiety of this terrible disease that I have been battling for over a decade," said Cimino. "In addition, it has helped me to relax, improve my sleep and blood circulation. I not only feel relief right after a massage but over time I have felt my MS is more manageable with regular treatments. My therapist Natasha at Elements Massage literally "saved me" in helping me cope and sustain a much more normal lifestyle."

"We are happy to help customers such as Deanna who suffer with MS with our massage treatments," said Elements Massage Owner Ferry Firmansjah. "With all our customers, we customize-design a therapy program. In Deanna's case, we found Swedish massage was helpful in relieving her symptoms of MS but each client's situation is unique and different techniques or therapists may be needed."

Doctors believe that massage strokes and friction promote muscle and connective tissue fibers to relax and stimulate blood flow. The effect of this on MS patients can cause profound pain suppression and a greater ease of muscle movement. Although not a substitute for physical therapy, massage therapy has helped relieve muscle spasms, improve blood circulation, alleviate pain and reduce mental anxiety in MS sufferers.

With several seasoned therapists on staff, Elements Massage of Warren is offering individuals with MS a 50 percent discount off the regular walk-in rate for massage services during the month of March and April. In addition, Elements is giving away two free massages every week to clients, who suffer with this chronic disease during these months.

Last year, Elements Massage of Warren raised $995 for the National MS Society's New Jersey Chapter and participated in the MS Walk in Clark, New Jersey.

GROWING OUR FUTURES

Submitted by Elaine Chesebro, Watchung Borough Schools

On Saturday, March 21, the Watchung Library held its first annual Mini-Maker Day Fair. Among other booths were the eighth grade students of the Valley View Middle School SOAR program, exhibiting their newest project, Growing our Futures, in the form of a hands-on seed paper making project. Through the winter months, these students participated in Future City, a competition involving the designing and building of a city fitting the yearly theme, Sustainably Feeding a City of the Future. The knowledge the eighth grade SOAR class gained was invaluable in understanding the agricultural process, but after the competition had ended, there was no longer a need for the information they had collected.

"We decided we wanted to take this project one step further, and use what we learned to change the way people see food," commented Annika Schmidt, age 13. Growing our Futures was born.
