HILLS' BACK TO SCHOOL NIGHT FEATURES STUDENT DISPLAYS

One of the highlights of the annual Back To School Night on Thursday, Oct. 8, at Watchung Hills Regional High School were the displays sponsored by extra-curricular activity groups, class and student-wide government representatives, and sports teams.

Representatives, including students and parent booster groups, from as many as 14 such student groups greeted parents, faculty and administrators with smiles and welcoming remarks, as well as fundraising Watchung Hills paraphernalia and apparel, displays and information.

Among the groups included were representatives from all four years, Freshmen, Sophomores, Juniors and Seniors, the Script & Cue student theater group, the Choir and the Environmental Club, and the Softball, Field Hockey, Girls Lacrosse, Frisbee and Robotics teams. Representatives from the All School Council (ASC) staffed the School Store, which is open at various times throughout the school week in the South Cafeteria.

In addition, the Watchung Hills Parent Teacher Organization (PTO) had an informational display in the center atrium, adjacent to the main office. Student volunteers at that display also offered starter kits with four LED long lasting light bulbs as a fundraiser to support PTO programs.

PTO parent volunteers distributed maps. Members of the Student Peer Leaders group staffed key major corridor intersections in the sprawling Watchung Hills building complex throughout the night. The Peer Leaders answered direction questions posed by the hundreds of parents attending Back To School Night.

One of the key activities for parents that night is for parents to use their child's actual class schedule to meet their various teachers, and to get a taste of what it is like to be a student at Watchung Hills. Just like their children, the parents for some 2,000 students navigated corridors filled with their fellow parents, walking swiftly, from one classroom to the next, sometimes right next door, but sometimes also in an entirely different corner of the sprawling, in places two-story school building.

GREEN BROOK'S IEF ELEMENTARY SCHOOL PROMOTES RESPECT & PEACE

During the week of October 5th, IEF School celebrated a "Week of Respect". Each day, a character quote was read during morning announcements; students participated in creating/signing two murals now adorning the halls of IEF – a peace sign, and a poster respect pledge. On Friday, October 9th, students attended the YoJo Anti Bullying Assembly. A respectful week was had by all!

During the week of October 19th, IEF School observed Violence Awareness & Prevention Week. Throughout the week, students and staff focused on the virtues of peace and kindness. We recognized students who committed "random acts of kindness" with certificates that are posted on our Acts of Kindness wall at IEF. On Wednesday, October 21st, Officer Larry Goldstein and Principal Lamberti presented a Violence Awareness and Prevention assembly for all IEF students.

STUDENTS SAY HILLS' ANNUAL CHALLENGE DAY IS THE BEST DAY OF THEIR LIVES

Submitted by Denis Kelly

Challenge Day, started in 2002 as a day-long, interactive empathy-building and communication program offered annually for a group of 100 sophomores, juniors and seniors at Watchung Hills Regional High School, will be held this year Thursday, Nov. 12, at the school.

The day is organized by Student Assistance Counselors Julie Kumpf and Gwen Blake.

"Challenge leaders, including teachers and community members, guide participants through a day of thought-provoking games, activities and discussions to address teen issues, such as bullying, alienation and self-destructive behavior," said Kumpf. "Activities are designed to increase respect, empathy and healthy emotional expression among students."

Added Blake, "We have hosted Challenge Day at Watchung Hills annually for the past 13 years, and the response has been overwhelmingly positive. Many students have called it the best day of their lives."

The Student Assistance Counselors said the "challenge" referred to in the program title is not as it might be used in referring to a "competition." Instead, it is an empathy-building exercise, a way to explore anti-bullying responses, and a communication and community-building experience.

Participation in Challenge Day requires parent permission. The first 100 students to turn in signed permission slips are chosen to participate. Permission slips can be obtained from Student Assistance Counselors or from the Guidance Office. Community members who want to participate as adult leaders can get more information from the Guidance Office. Community members who have participated in the past include parents, public officials and clergy.

Because of the trust-building nature of the program, all students and leaders selected for Challenge Day must commit to participate for the entire program, 7:30 a.m. to 2:15 p.m.

Local funding for the Challenge Day program at Watchung Hills is provided through the Youth Service Commission of Warren Township and Green Brook Township, and the Watchung Hills Regional Municipal Alliance (WHRMA).

(above) Watchung Hills Regional High School Student Assistance Counselors Julie Kumpf, left, and Gwen Blake stand beside one of several posters at the school encouraging sophomores, juniors and seniors to participate in Challenge Day, Thursday, Nov. 12, at the school. This will be the 13th year the school has offered the day-long interactive empathy-building and communication program.
