NORTH PLAINFIELD POLICE YOUTH ACADEMY

Police Chief William Parenti announced the North Plainfield Police Department recently held the second annual Police Youth Academy in July. The Chief said 14 middle school age students graduated from the program on July 15, after a thirty hour training program that included physical conditioning, and lectures on criminal investigation, criminal law and visits from the North Plainfield Fire Department, the Somerset County SWAT team, the Somerset County Sheriff's Office, the New Jersey State Police, the New Jersey Fire Marshall's Office, and the FBI.

A participant in the program, Jimena Torres, a student at the North Plainfield Middle School spoke at the graduation ceremony. Chief Parenti wanted to share an excerpt from her speech: "The junior police academy has been a great experience for not only me, but also the other cadets here as well. Through this great program we have been able to see through the eyes of a police officer and get a taste of what they do in an actual police academy. Although the police training we were put through may have been exhausting, it was worth it, because we pushed ourselves and we improved each and every day. We also learned discipline and pride as we learned to march. In just five days we were shown marching and all the other aspects that come with.... All the things we witnessed and experienced were worth all the physical exertion and heat and yelling early in the morning because after it all, we saw some amazing things that will always stay in our minds and hearts, all because these men took the time to teach others what they love and do every day. And we thank you all very much: Chief Parenti, Officer Rogers, Detective Everett, Lieutenant Flynn, Detective Segeda, Sergeant Speck, and the two men who looked over this program the entire time Detective Fowler and last but not least, Detective Domizi and others who came here and there to help out. Thank you all so much."

The Interact Club was one of the few clubs in Rotary District 7510 to achieve the special recognition.

The annual meeting also was an opportunity to recognize volunteers who helped out at many of the club's projects over the year. Projects such as Rutgers basketball concession duty, the Track and Field Meet, the Pancake Breakfast and others were supported by the North Plainfield Interact Club and by friends of the club. Interact Club members attending the dinner were Yanqing Liang, Brenda Okereke, Matthew Cabrera, Clarissa Zabala, Genesis Ramirez, Giovanni Rivas, Marisol Hernandez, Brendan Cheung, Nikita Forrester and Kevin Forrester.

One of the Club's faithful friends and supporters is Harry Allen of North Plainfield, husband of Rotarian Janice Allen. ## THE GIVING GARDEN

The Plainfield-North Plainfield Rotary Club and the North Plainfield High School Interact Club have four plots at the garden where they grow fresh vegetables for local food pantries, including Star Fish Food Pantry in Plainfield.

The Giving Garden is part of the Wagner Farm Arboretum. They have a large garden area where they rent out plots of various sizes in half of the garden; the other half consists of plots that are 4 X 40 feet each. Volunteers grow vegetables of all types in these plots and then harvest them for area food banks and pantries.

The Rotary club maintains four of these plots. The Interact Club at North Plainfield High School helped us prepare and then plant the plots before they finished the school year. About 15 kids went up to the Garden once a week after school to work for two to three hours.

In addition to working the four plots, two of our Rotary club members pick up harvested vegetables every Thursday and take them to the Star Fish Food Pantry, the Salvation Army, and to several senior citizen housing buildings in Plainfield.
