ULTIMATE FRISBEE CHAMPIONSHIP SUCCESS

By: Edir Coronado

The game of Ultimate Frisbee was conceived in Maplewood, NJ by Joel Silver in 1968. He presented his idea to the Columbia High School student council and the following year a group of students played a game of Ultimate Frisbee using the Wham-O-Master disc.

By 1970 high school teams were created and Joel Silver, Buzzy Hellring, and Jon Hines created a set of rules. With these rules Columbia High School faced off against Milburn High School in the first ever Ultimate Frisbee Interscholastic game, Columbia High School emerged as the winner with a score of 43 to 10, according to the World Flying Disc Federation (WFDF) website Some 20 minutes west on the I-78 a group of young women are continuing the upward trend of Ultimate Frisbee.

With six straight championships added to their repertoire, it is important to have this group of athletes to represent all that Ultimate Frisbee has to offer, and at its core, the team captains lead the way impressing the younger athletes, with their dedication to the sport and superior physical abilities.

While these young athletes are currently committed to the sport, they were hesitant at first. "My first impressions of the sport were similar to many other people's first impressions, that the sport was for weaker athletes and didn't require much effort," stated Megan Ma, team captain. She learned about the sport from her brother who played Ultimate Frisbee as well.

Jessie Sun, a graduating senior, former captain, who is now on the national team expressed, "It wasn't really my intention to fully commit to it," and while most players never intended to join, once involved in the sport they felt a connection to the game.

Ultimate Frisbee is a sport like no other and within the sport, amongst team members and opponents, respect is stressed. While it is true that football, basketball, and baseball all stress sportsmanship, few sports hold sportsmanship to such a high standard. At the end of every game both opposing teams gather on the field in a circle to discuss conflicts that occurred during the game. According to the WFDF, teams have designated spirit captains and at any moment if the spirit captains feel that the spirit of the game is being violated it is addressed during the game.

Part of the spirit of the game is the self-governing role that players are responsible for when calls are made on the field. There are no referees in the game at the high school level, but increasingly observers and referees are being implemented at the collegiate and professional level. Ma doesn't necessarily agree with an outside person mediating the game, but feels if she continues it wouldn't affect the spirit of the game for her.

Most of the athletes on the team are multi-sport players that decided to dedicate more time to Ultimate Frisbee, while they fell in love with game and now have 20 plus competitors on the lineup, they are still struggling to advertise the attractive aspect of the game.

One way they have made a breakthrough is by inviting middle school children to the summer practices, which has shown great promise. "Ultimate Frisbee is an amazing sport," expressed 6th grader Chloe Tu

"It is really nice having the high schoolers guide my friends and I through this amazing sport."

Currently the team is undergoing conditioning training. Practices for these competitors consist of running up to four miles, quad and core exercises. This group never has an offseason and this is reflected in their championship success, which they plan on achieving again this year.

WORKING WITH OPERATION SMILE TRANSFORMS LIVES It took Anna Makowski three days to get to Zhen Xiong, China for her mission trip for Operation Smile, but the lessons she learned in the small rural city of 1.6 million in May are sure to last a lifetime.

Wei opened her eyes to a world she never imagined as she spent one hour beside the youngster's surgeon as he transformed her scar into a smile.

"Wei was playing with stickers when I met her before her surgery," recalled Anna, a Watchung resident who will enter her senior year at Mount Saint Mary Academy this fall. "She was learning English and I was trying to learn Chinese. When she was called for surgery, she was very nervous and I asked a translator to ask her if she wanted me to go into surgery with her and she said "Yes." I bought her a stuffed animal puppy and made her a heart balloon, which I gave her while she was in recovery. Her mom, who was really thankful, asked for my e-mail address so Wei could email me as she learns English."

Anna remembered the way she felt driving through narrow, winding mountain roads to reach the city before meeting Wei and all of the patients and families. The trip down that same road would be quite different, as she reflected: "I realized how privileged I am to go to MSMA and the education that I am receiving here. So many children around the world do not have the opportunity to have the education I have or even half of what I have. They have the right to receive a good education and to pursue the career path they want."

"Unfortunately, without the education they The operation of an eight-year-old girl named need, they will probably stay where they are and not be able to break the cycle," said Anna, whose dream job as an ambassador at the United Nations could help make those changes possible.

The Friends of the Watchung Library aren't letting the heat slow them down this summer! The Friends kicked off the 2016 Summer Reading program with an Open House at the library. Dozens of library patrons stopped by to register for summer reading programs, renew their Friends' memberships, enjoy lemonade and cookies, and browse Second Story Books. The Open House was also the Grand Reopening of Second Story Books, the Friends' bookstore, which features new and like-new books, DVDs, and CDs. Each patron who came to the Open House received a Book Buck, good for $1.00 toward the purchase of an item in Second Story

Friends' were particularly pleased to kick off the Summer Reading Program, which this year features five exciting programs sponsored by Friends: Traditions of Chinese Acrobatics (hand balancing, plate spinning, trick cycling, foot juggling, ribbon dancing, and Chinese water bowl manipulation), Mad Science's Moving Motion (yanking table clothes from under dishes, sending crash dummies flying, and more), Spavalcade (a sports book scavenger hunt) for teens, and two programs for adults - Ancient Entertainment (exploring ancient sports events, theater, chariot races, and gladiator combat) and American Masterpieces (discovering the stories behind 25 iconic artworks).

In addition, the year-round Friends'-sponsored Watchung Library Chess Club is welcoming new players with newly returned popular chess coach Martin Carroll and with an expanded schedule: the second and fourth Monday of each month at 7:00 pm. For more information about programs or to sign up, stop by the library or go to www.sclsnj.org. We hope to see you!

Friends will continue through the summer with a sale at the Watchung Farmers' Markets, to be held Sundays from 10:00 am until 2:00 pm starting July 31st through October 2nd. Hundreds of movies on DVD will be offered, ranging from G, PG and PG-13 through R-rated selections. In addition, there will be over a thousand music CDs, including popular music, classical music, Jazz, Folk, Blues, Rap, movie soundtracks and more.

Stop by our table at the Farmers Market and see what we have for you.

PAVLAK EARNS ART AND WRITING AWARDS

By: Edir Coronado

Mitchell Pavlak of Watchung, New Jersey is a sophomore and recent recipient of the Scholastic Art and Writing Awards. His forte is photography, macro photography to be exact, a form of photography where you take pictures of small subjects and make them larger than life size, "this is a passion of mine," explains Pavlak.

The Scholastic Art and Writing Awards are bestowed to those students who display a superior talent in the realm of art and literature. The awards are presented by the Alliance for Young Artists and Writers and through these awards recipients have the opportunity to gain notoriety, have their works published, and earn scholarships. Students from 7th to 12th grades, private, homeschooled, or public can submit works.

Although Pavlak has the "eye" for photography and is able to catch stunning photos, what drew him to photography was his thirst for learning and understanding the mechanics of objects, such as a camera. He explains, "I wanted to learn how a camera works, how they can capture a scene and capture light to form an image;" to Pavlak the workings of cameras were compelling and it was this fascination that lured him deeper into the world of photography.

Pavlak began delving deeper into the new found interest and explored how shutter speed played a role in freezing moving objects or the depth of field due to an increase and decrease in aperture. Early on Pavlak gravitated mostly to wildlife photography because of the challenge that is presented trying to capture a perfect moment when your subject can easily fly away if disturbed, this combined with his preferred method of using his equipment in manual mode, displays a great deal of patience and effort.

He later began exploring macro photography when his parents rented him a macro lens to try out, after Pavlak excitedly showed his mother some macro photos he had obtained online. "The challenges of extreme macro photography also inspire/challenge me as manual mode is practically a must, and every little bit of camera shake is magnified greatly," explains Pavlak. He gains a great deal of joy from achieving the perfect photograph, despite the level difficulty it entails.

He has instead chosen to use his skills in photography for a greater cause, opting to provide his talents, for free, to events like StreetSquash, Newark's annual Brick City Cup charity squash tournament. Pavlak has also donated several photos to non-profit wildlife and nature centers in New Jersey and North Carolina, so that they may sell them and boost funding for their operations.

Currently Pavlak has a website, which he posts all of his photos. mitchellpavlak.smugmug.com.
